

DEMANDS PEACE IN MEXICO

BULGARIA AND RUMANIA READY TO JOIN ALLIES

Rumania Will Go to War Against Austria and Bulgaria Against Turkey—Belgians Active

The addition of Bulgaria and Rumania to the ranks of the allies is indicated by a despatch from Bucharest to Paris, stating that Rumania had obtained territorial grants from Bulgaria and is about to conclude similar negotiations with Russia. Under this plan, it is said, Rumania will go to war against Austria and Bulgaria against Turkey.

Rumania aspires to the possession of Transylvania, while the Austrian government is reported to have offered her Turkey already has made preparations at Adrianople and elsewhere south of the Bulgarian border for possible invasion.

Enormous losses.

The status of military operations in Galicia is made still more confused by the latest official report from Petrograd. To the north of Przemyśl where important successes for the Austro-German forces are claimed at Berlin and Vienna. It is said the Russians repulsed their opponents with enormous losses. The Russian war office acknowledges that one fort was broken but declares the attackers were subsequently expelled. Consistent successes all along the eastern front are claimed by the Austrians and Germans, who stated specifically that three forts north of Przemyśl were captured.

Belgians Active.

The Belgian army is once more in the thick of battle. A statement from the Belgian war ministry indicates that the Germans are assaulting their position of the front. It is said, however, that the Germans were unable to advance and that they suffered from a heavy fire of guns massed by the Belgians.

RUMANIA OCCUPYING "SEAT OF UNEASY NEUTRALITY" LATELY HELD BY ITALY

LONDON, June 2, 11:12 a. m.—Rumania is now occupying the seat of uneasy neutrality lately held by Italy. The diplomats of the neutral east evidently are working hard to bring about an understanding between Bulgaria and Rumania. Rumors are rife that Rumania is mobilizing an army of 150,000 men which is said to be in splendid condition for active service.

The German press is showing some indications of anxiety over this situation, and the Frankfurt Zeitung has called for concessions to prevent Rumanian intervention. Vienna has been informed that Germany, pouring out blood and treasure in the struggle, must be listened to and that Austria-Hungary must be prepared to make certain sacrifices to meet the Rumanian demands.

It is significant in the opinion of British observers, that three of the opposition leaders in the Hungarian parliament have demanded and been granted a conference with Emperor Francis Joseph for the statement of opinions which cannot be uttered in parliament itself.

The Russians are reported as being heavily reinforced along the River San, but the official accounts on operations at this point continue to be con-

PRES. WILSON SENDS NOTE TO THE LEADERS

Unless Factions Themselves Can Compose Situation Some Other Means Will be Found by the United States to End Incessant Warfare

WASHINGTON, June 2.—Notice to the military factions in Mexico that intolerable conditions have resulted from their incessant warfare was ready to be despatched by the United States government today to the leaders of all elements in the southern republic.

The communication prepared by President Wilson and approved by his cabinet, is the first step in a policy which the administration has determined upon to bring about the restoration of peace in Mexico. Unless the Mexican factions themselves compose the situation some other means will be found by the United States. It is pointed out, to solve the problem.

Although the communication does not set forth the specific course the United States will adopt in case of failure of the various factions to agree, it is the administration's present plan to extend moral support to the formation of a coalition government, made up of the best elements in Mexico, and to accord it formal recognition. An embargo on arms would then be issued, giving the constituted government the exclusive right to obtain war munitions.

The Saidieh was owned by the Khedivial Mail Steamship Co. of London. She was formerly the steamship Pretoria, was built in Dunbarton, Scotland, in 1878 and was 330 feet long and of 1984 tons net.

U. S. NOTE TO GERMANY

Cabinet Approves Pres. Wilson's Policy—Note Brief and Sharp—Bernstorff Visits Pres. Wilson

WASHINGTON, June 2.—President Wilson has arranged to give audience today to Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador. The latter requested the interview in order to learn by personal conversation, the point of view of the man who is charged with the execution of the foreign policy of the United States and the personal representative of the emperor of Germany, the ambassador of the imperial German government, was the first sought by Count von Bernstorff since last September, when he returned from Germany after a summer's visit. The call then was to pay respects.

Tonday's visit was concerned with the delicate relations that have arisen between Germany and the United States, over loss of more than 100 Americans when the Lusitania was sunk and other violations of American rights on the high seas.

Wants to Prevent Rupture.

The German ambassador has told friends that he realizes the seriousness of the situation and is anxious to do all he can personally to prevent a rupture in friendly relations. He is unable to communicate easily, however, with his government because German cables were cut by the allies. Consequently high officials did not believe the ambassador could bring any proposal from the German government differing from the answer which Herr von Jagow, the German foreign minister, gave to the American note last Saturday. This was pronounced unsatisfactory in cabinet council yesterday.

The importance of the conference, however, lies in the fact that although the interview was sought without instruction from the German government, it might express to the ambassador would be transmitted by the latter to Berlin, and would, naturally, be taken into consideration there in connection with the note which the United States government plans to send before the end of the present week.

"Strict Accountability"

The unwavering determination of the United States to hold Germany to a "strict accountability" for violations of American rights is to be embodied in the note, the drafting of which was under way today. The main point of the document, which is to be brief and will be despatched before the end of the week, very probably will be an inquiry to ascertain definitely and promptly if the German government intends to adhere to the principles of international law, hitherto accepted universally or to conduct its maritime warfare according to its own new rules. Refusal to recognize the principles set forth by the United States that every unarmed merchantman must be visited and searched, and passengers and crew transferred to a place of safety, before the vessel and cargo of contraband is destroyed will be followed, it is generally predicted by a severance of diplomatic intercourse with Germany.

Another Request for Reparation.

Acceptance of the principle in such a way as to guarantee the safety of American lives would lead, it was believed, to a relaxation of the request for reparation due the families of the American victims of the Lusitania and a disavowal of the act.

Count von Bernstorff's visit to the White House today, it was thought possibly might have a far-reaching effect on the solution of the problem. The ambassador is said to be anxious to know personally exactly what course the United States would like Germany to follow with reference to submarine warfare, so that he can transmit details to Berlin. On the other hand there was pessimism in some quarters over the ambassador's visit because it was pointed out, the American point of view had been explained in detail by Ambassador Gerard in Berlin to high German officials. The engagement had been set for the noon hour.

Mr. Cahn, who is represented by A. S. Goldman, Esq., of this city, is suing to recover an alleged commission for the sale of the said organ to Lowe & Green, former lessees of the Opera House. He claims he was to receive a commission of five per cent as agent for the Weurlitzer Organ Co. in the sale of the said organ to Lowe & Green, the said commission amounting to $500. The attachment was made this morning and the papers were filed with the city clerk this noon.

LOS ANGELES, Calif., June 2.—Frederick J. Whiffen, president of the Los Angeles city council, had a lead of 37 over Charles E. BOARD OF TRADE REPORT

Annual Meeting and Election of Officers—Sec. Murphy's Report Reviews Activities of Past Year

Robert F. Marden and John H. Murphy were re-elected president and secretary respectively of the Lowell board of trade at the annual meeting which was held last night in the rooms of the organization in Central street. The attendance at the meeting was larger than expected, which shows that the members are deeply interested in the doings and welfare of the board. An amendment to the constitution was adopted and interesting reports were given by the president, secretary and other men connected with the organization.

The meeting was presided over by Robert F. Marden and two new members, William L. Gookin and Anthony Paprowicz, were elected to membership. The following amendment to the constitution of the board was adopted:

"Any corporation whose capital stock exceeds $100,000 shall become a corporate member of the board of trade in the name of the corporation upon the payment of $25 per year and shall be entitled therefor to five representatives in the board of trade."

The election of officers was held with the following result:

President, Robert F. Marden.
First vice president, Charles H. McIntire.

Second vice president, Harold L. Chalfoux.
Third vice president, James C. Reilly.
Treasurer, Edward B. Carney.
Auditor, William F. Hills.
Clerk, Irving D. Kimball.

Directors—Hon. Dennis J. Murphy, mayor; former President Jesse H. Shepard, former President Walter S. Watson, former President Alonzo G. Walsh, former President Henry A. Smith, former President Harvey B. Green, former President George M. Harriman, Hon. Erson B. Barlow, J. Harry Boardman, William H. Holger, George Bowers, Daniel F. Carroll, Milo D. Clay, Harry Dunlap, Herford N. Elliott, Frederic A. Fisher, Walter E. Guyette, Fred F. Hayward, Gardner W. Macartney, Clarence H. Nelson, Thomas J. O'Donnell, Patrick O'Hearn, William H. Penn, Stanley E. Qua, Frank Richard, Will Rounds, Charles W. Ruelas, Arthur W. Saunders, Daniel W. Shanahan, William C. Vandenberg, Percy J. Wilson, Cyrus Woodman.

A feature of the meeting was the reading of the annual report of Secretary John H. Murphy, who reviewed all the doings of the board during the past year. The paper was a long one, but contained valuable information concerning the different moves of the organization during the past twelve months.

The report in part is as follows:

The more important activities which have demanded the time and attention of the board have been the following:

The Merrimack river navigation problem, the question of determining the standing of the city from a fire hazard standpoint and the adjustment of insurance rates, the holdings of interlocking interests, the question of the membership, advancing the interests of the city and a general supervision over such matters as pertain to the ordinary and routine work of a commercial organization, including special events as the horticultural show and the Lowell day.

The officials appreciate the kind cooperation and assistance rendered by the members and also the cooperation of the municipal council on many matters during the year. Congressman John Jacob Rogers, who on numerous occasions rendered valuable aid and assisted materially in various ways in such a splendid spirit is sincerely thanked and recognized in this manner.

The Meetings

The general meetings of the board have been very successful and the affairs have been gratifying to members and officials. The speakers and guests of the various occasions have been men of standing and have discussed live topics of interest. Among the distinguished guests were the following: Congressman John Jacob Rogers, Congressman Samuel E. Winslow, Congressman A. P. Gardner, Lieut. General Nelson A. Miles, U. S. A., retired, Hon. Robert Luce, Hon. John F. Fitzgerald, Hon. John N. Cole, Mr. Roger W. Babson, Mr. Edwin D. Atter, president World's Peace Foundation, Mr. A. W. Douglas, of St. Louis, Mr. Hamilton Holt, editor of the Independent, Professor William I. Hull of Swarthmore college, Internal Revenue Collector John F. Malley, Mr. A. B. Butlerland, of the Merrimack Valley waterway board, Mr. S. Wales Dixon, supervisor of playgrounds of Hartford, Conn.; Col. William D. Sohier of the highway commission, former Senator Malcolm E. Nichols and Hon. Dennis J. Murphy.

River Problem

During this entire year in working out the problem relative to the navigability of the Merrimack river it has been the policy of the committee having this matter in charge to consolidate all interests in the city. The first effort was to secure the return from Washington of the adverse report made by Col. W. E. Craighill. This was accomplished by a pilgrimage to Washington where the request was made and granted. In preparing to offer the army engineer further evidence which might lead him to change his adverse report to a favorable one, the committee became cognizant of the fact that the Locks and Canals and the textile mills were probably antagonistic to the project. In order to take their point of view into consideration and to make sure that the committee was urging nothing that would tend to wreck the comfort and prosperity of existing industries in Lowell, letters were written to all the mill and water power men asking for an expression of opinion from them. Many responses were received indicating that the mill interests were something more than doubtful about the river plan. At their suggestion the secretary and the president conferred one afternoon with five of the mill agents and this was followed by a conference at the board of trade rooms at which were present a dozen mill men and water power engineers and some other of the important shippers and receivers of freight and coal in the city. Mr. Mills of the Locks and Canals frankly stated his objections to the river plan, but in response to the vital question affecting the minds of your committee, Mr. Mills unequivocally stated that the water power of Lowell would not be disturbed materially and further agreed that it was not an engineering impossibility to make arrangements to connect the Hunt's falls end of the ship channel with the city.

The board made a complete study of the water power of Lowell and after publishing a series of newspaper articles furnished by officials from cities having up-to-date lighting systems, the board recommended to the municipal council an appropriation for the installation of the present system.

Owing to the general depression of business, occasioned by the many apparent causes, the work of securing new industries was somewhat hampered. The new enterprise committee, however, has been extremely busy and is now in touch with industries and when conditions are more favorable, will probably be able to locate them in Lowell.

The work accomplished by the membership committee is worthy of the highest words of commendation. Persistent and systematized campaigning has brought the membership of the board to the highest standing in its history.

Today there are 791 members who have paid their 1915 assessment and there still remains 129 members who will remit during the coming months. This gives the board a total of 920 in round numbers. New members to the number of 228 were secured during the year.

This is the largest number of members on record and the numerical strength of the Lowell board of trade compares very favorably with the boards of trade in other cities of equal size. An attempt to make the membership reach the 1000 mark will be made in the fall.

THE CITY SEALER SEEING AMERICA

Warren P. Riordan Back From Conference at Washington

Warren P. Riordan, sealer of weights and measures, has returned from Washington D. C., where he attended the tenth annual conference of Weights and Measures of the United States. He was one of seven representatives from Massachusetts and he says the trip was enjoyable and profitable as well. The conference lasted four days, from May 25th to May 28th inclusive.

Hon. William Redfield, secretary of commerce, presided, and the opening address was by Hon. O. W. Stratton, director of the bureau of standards. Other speakers included Mr. L. A. Fischer, chief of the division of weights and measures of the bureau of standards. The total number of delegates approximated 300, New York state had the largest delegation. Commissioner Thurst Hansen of Massachusetts was elected to the executive committee and Massachusetts was paid the compliment of being the pioneer state in the proper and general introduction and installation of the weights and measures system. Massachusetts was the first state to properly enforce the laws and regulations having to do with weights and measures and the only city having a complete city and town organization at the present time.

Lowell Textile School

Mr. Riordan brought back a compliment for the Lowell Textile school, having been informed that to be a graduate of the Lowell Textile school means a whole lot for an applicant for a position with the bureau of standards at Washington. "I do not know just where the textile school training would fit in this case," said Mr. Riordan, "but I was assured that the applicant who is a graduate of the Lowell Textile school has a whole lot in his favor."

Mr. Riordan stated that the most interesting discussion came on the Ashbrook bill providing that all sealers and deputies come under the bureau of standards. "The New York and Pennsylvania delegates," he said, "were opposed to the bill, on the ground that it would interfere with state and city authority."

Following the entertainment program, the young people were given a boat ride across Lake Massawippi and dancing was enjoyed until late in the evening at the Lakeview dance pavilion.

The banquet committee to whom credit is due for the great success of the affair, was composed of the following members: James McEvoy, chairman; John Joyce, Gerald F. Lane, Edward Flanders, Fred Smith, Francis Garrity, John Welsh, Fred Webster, Frank Flinnerty, Arthur Flannery, Walter McEvoy, Hugh Flinnerty, Frank Williams, John Hennessy, Thomas Keyes, Thomas Baxter and Walter Dow. Joseph Moriarty was chairman of the reception committee.

EXPERTS FIGURE WILLIAMS HAS GOOD CHANCE TO DEFEAT M'LOUGHLIN

NORRIS WILLIAMS &

NEW YORK, June 1.—Although the majority of lawn tennis experts are of the opinion that Maurice McLoughlin, the sensational California racketeer, will carry off the national championship honors with ease, there are a number who believe R. Norris Williams, the ex-Harvard star, will take him into camp. Last season at Newport Williams defeated McLoughlin for the title. Experts declared McLoughlin was not himself in the Newport tourney, but others say the ex-Harvard man on that day could have beaten McLoughlin with the latter at his best. As Williams and McLoughlin will clash several times this season, besides meeting in the national championship, the followers of the two will have ample opportunity to look over their favorites.

Delegates to the Pan-American Conference in Washington

PHILADELPHIA, June 1.—The delegates to the Pan-American conference held in Washington last week arrived here today, prepared for two days of sight-seeing.

The first activity of the day after the delegates had their breakfast was the reception tendered the visitors at the hotel where they are making their headquarters.

The big party then proceeded to the Independence hall, where the delegates joined in observing the 129th anniversary of the birth of the declaration of independence. In the first week in June, 1776, there was presented to the representatives of the thirteen colonies a resolution which when applied, became the declaration of independence.

FOUR OF CLUBS' BANQUET

POPULAR CLUB HELD OUTING FOR LADY FRIENDS AT LAKE MASSAWIPPI

The first annual banquet to the lady friends of the members of the Four of Clubs was held Monday afternoon, and it can safely be stated that never did a more jolly gathering of young people assemble at a festive board. Fully 30 couples sat down to the sumptuous repast prepared by Caterer Harvey. The banquet was held in the well appointed quarters of the Temple club, Willow Dale.

The festivities opened at 6 o'clock when the members and guests assembled at the Temple club, after visiting several of the summer homes along Bowker avenue. At this time lines were formed and all marched to the long tables on which a turkey dinner was served.

The post prandial exercises were opened by President James McEvoy who thanked all for their presence and for the assistance they had rendered in making the event successful. He then introduced Arthur Flinnerty of the Falcon club as the toastmaster of the afternoon.

Following the entertainment program, the young people were given a boat ride across Lake Massawippi and dancing was enjoyed until late in the evening at the Lakeview dance pavilion.

The banquet committee to whom credit is due for the great success of the affair, was composed of the following members: James McEvoy, chairman; John Joyce, Gerald F. PAWTUCKET BRIDGE WILL COST $80,000

The order to borrow $80,000 for a new Pawtucket bridge came up at the regular meeting of the municipal council and after considerable discussion in which men from Pawtucketville participated the order was changed to read $50,000 and voted unanimously. It was agreed, too, that all labor shall be hired by the commissioner of streets and that the "fringe" of such help shall be up to the engineer in charge. William Denman of Springfield, who made it very plain that he would not tolerate incompetent help. He said he would insist on a fair day's work for a fair day's pay.

Commissioner Carmichael was authorized to make requisition on the purchasing agent for a second pump to be installed at the boulevard pumping station. Competitive bids will be called for. The pump must have a capacity of 50,000 gallons and must not cost more than $20,000 to be paid out of the water department appropriation.

The Pawtucketville men who have been prominent in the agitation for a new Pawtucket bridge were present when Mayor Murphy introduced the bridge matter. The mayor said he was not satisfied with the estimate of $80,000 without some guarantee being given that the bridge would be built within that amount. He said that the guarantee would have to be forthcoming before he would vote for the order. He said he would ask that a new contract be drawn that would include a guarantee. He had talked with Engineer Denman, he said, and fully appreciated his view in the matter. He knew that Mr. Denman would not want to make any guarantee unless he would have full control of the job and the help.

He said that the engineer in charge of the job should have the power to discharge men who were not competent. The mayor thought the bridge could be built for $75,000. Engineer Denman said that all bridges built by him had been built within his estimates, but they were built by contract work. "I would have to control the help," he said, "in order to give you a guarantee that the bridge would be built within the estimate. I would not undertake to give a guarantee and then do the work under another man's supervision. I will have two competent foremen and if given authority to handle the help I would be willing to give you the necessary guarantee."

It was agreed that the city solicitor should draw up a new contract and that the commissioner of streets and the purchasing agent would co-operate in every way with the engineer. The original estimate for the bridge, including land damage, was $80,000, $50,000 for the bridge and $30,000 for the land, and in answer to a question by Commissioner Duncan, Engineer Denman said he would guarantee to build the bridge for $50,000, providing he was given full control of the labor.

Commissioner Morse
Mr. Morse—"I will pick the men for you, if you will supply an experienced foreman. My foremen are not experienced bridge builders. We have good men in Lowell and I have more men on my payroll today than ever before in the history of the street department. I suppose you would want to work Saturday afternoons and Sunday and I presume Lowell men might object, and in that instance, of course, others would have to be employed. Mr. Denman can hire his men through me and he can do the fringing."

Temporary Bridge
Commissioner Carmichael thought that the expense of building a temporary bridge for foot travel could be eliminated. "I think for the few months," he said, "the people of Pawtucketville might suffer a little inconvenience while the bridge is building. A temporary bridge would cost $2000 and I think that amount can be saved. I was willing in Pawtucketville I would be willing to suffer a little inconvenience."

"There was a time when the street railway company was willing to give $5000 toward the construction of a new Pawtucket bridge and I think the mayor and the commissioner of streets and highways and the city solicitor should wait on the president of the Bay State Street railway and consult with him relative to the matter. Mr. Sullivan has always been very fair in these matters and I think he would strain a point to help us in the erection of a new bridge. I do not know as to the financial standing of

Wants Street Railway to Help

On motion of Mr. Carmichael it was voted to have the mayor, city solicitor and commissioner of streets confer with President Sullivan of the street railway company.

Mr. W. T. S. Bartlett said he thought that the committee of citizens who had to do with the erection of a new bridge would be willing to abide by the decision of the council as long as there was hopes for a new bridge.

Mr. Thomas Varum said that as far as doing without a bridge, temporarily, is concerned it was not up to the committee to say as representing the people of Pawtucketville and he suggested that a vote of those present from Pawtucketville be taken, but in order to get the sentiment of the committee he suggested that a vote of the committee be taken. The mayor asked for a rising vote and a majority of the committee stood up.

Mr. Charles Holmes said it would be a great hardship on the people of Pawtucketville to deny them a temporary bridge while the new bridge is building. He said it was a long way around to the Moody street bridge.

Mr. Duncan's Motion
Com. Duncan moved that the order for $80,000 for a new bridge be taken from the table.

Com. Carmichael said if the street railway should contribute $5000 and $2000 more could be saved by the elimination of a temporary bridge, it would not be necessary to borrow $80,000.

The order was taken from the table and read by the mayor and Mr. Carmichael suggested that the council wait a while before voting to borrow the money.

Mr. question came on the borrowing of money for land damage as well as the bridge itself and City Solicitor Hennessy explained that separate orders would be necessary.

It was finally decided to make the order read $50,000 for a new bridge and in this form it was adopted, unanimously.

Council Fully Justified
Commissioner Carmichael said that the new bridge would have a tendency to bring people to Pawtucketville and he thought the estimate of $80,000 was a splendid one. He spoke of the bridge having been condemned several years ago and said the council was fully justified in voting for a new bridge.

Com. Duncan said the matter might be altered to go along indefinitely, but he believed that sooner or later the bridge would collapse. "But not only is the element of danger to be considered," he said, "but there is the question of convenience to which the people of Pawtucketville are entitled. It is a well known fact that the present bridge is wholly inadequate to the demands to be made upon a bridge at that point."

G. F. Barrows, representing the U. S. Cartridge Co., asked that the company be given permission to build a road to be used as a highway to South Lowell connecting with Commonwealth avenue near the South Lowell station. He explained that it would be made to connect with an underpass to be built by the railroad; that it would eliminate the danger of the grade crossing and was intended as a safeguard for the company's employees. He asked the commissioners to view the premises and the view was made directly after the meeting, though the meeting did not adjourn until 1:20 o'clock.

Garnage and Gasoline Licenses
A big batch of petitions for garage and gasoline licenses was referred to Commissioner Carmichael and the chief of the fire department. Petitions for pole locations and extra wire attachments were also properly referred. The Lowell Electric Light corporation asked permission to lay conductors in Merrimack street between Cabot and Pawtucket streets, preparatory to the smooth paving to be done there, and the matter was referred to Commissioner Morse.

Charles J. Burns had petitioned for a revolving or ornamental barber pole in Central street and the matter came up on a motion of leave to withdraw. The mayor objected to any action on these matters and I think he would strain a point to help us in the erection of a new bridge. I do not know as to the financial standing of

WALSH VEToes TWO BILLS

One Validating Outstanding Securities of New Haven, Other the New Haven Bond Issue Bill

BOSTON, June 1.—A bill validating certain outstanding securities of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad was vetoed by Gov. Walsh today. The message explaining the veto was withheld until its presentation in the senate in the afternoon.

The governor also vetoed the so-called New Haven bond issue bill, relating to the issue of stocks, bonds, notes or other evidences of indebtedness by railroad corporations.

Prior to the reading of the veto messages the governor conferred with President Coolidge of the senate and Speaker Coox of the house in an attempt to agree upon a policy of procedure.

In the message accompanying the veto of the validation bill the governor declared that amendments offered and adopted during the closing hours of the legislative session have made radical changes in the program, "changes" he said, "directly contrary to the public interest, and that strike a death blow at the wise and settled policy at the commonwealth."

The governor held that some relief for the New Haven road was wise and in the public interest and he recommended that the bill be amended so as to accord with certain recommendations of the public service commission. If so amended, he said, he would gladly sign it. He declared that the resolve for a further investigation by the commission should be enacted.

Explaining the veto of the bill relating to the issue of evidences of indebtedness beyond the amount of capital stock outstanding, Gov. Walsh said that inasmuch as Connecticut had changed its laws to conform to those of Massachusetts and to permit railroads to issue such evidences of indebtedness subject to the approval of the public service commission, it was only consistent that the Massachusetts legislature should adopt an equivalent statute to secure the uniformity sought. The measure vetoed by the governor did not require the approval of the public service commission to the stock or bond issues.

It was announced today that the governor had signed bills authorizing the New Haven road to issue preferred stock and fractional shares for the purpose of refunding debt.

AN EVASIVE REPLY

In his famous note to Germany President Wilson in unmistakable terms asked that Germany should acknowledge the injustice of the sinking of the Lusitania, should make reparation so far as possible for the American lives lost and should give a guarantee that such warfare on neutrals should cease. It was intimated plainly that Germany could not respect the rules of international law while engaged in a submarine warfare against merchant ships, and it was intimated still more plainly that the American government stood ready to back up its demands by immediate action.

After waiting until further delay would have aroused strong animosity in this country, Germany has sent an answer that ignores every main point in President Wilson's note, asserts Germany's right to sink the Lusitania, quotes American law to justify the outrage, expresses little or no regret and promises no cessation of submarine activity. By some, the German note is regarded as a statement of facts as Germany sees them; by others it is regarded as a challenge—though this interpretation is for America to make officially or not, as its leaders see fit. It is questionable if the German government really believes as it pretends to believe in this answer. It states that the Lusitania was an auxiliary British cruiser, was armed with cannons carried below deck, carried Canadian troops and ammunition and used Americans merely as a cloak to cover war movements. All of these charges have been disproved beyond question. Had she been an auxiliary cruiser, the proper course would have been for Germany to call for her internment in our port. Had she carried guns, our government officials would have known and forbidden her engaging in the American passenger service. There is no evidence to support the claim that she carried Canadian troops, and the ammunition was of the variety carried by passenger vessels at all times. Even admitting that the charges were true, it would not justify the attack on neutrals, but aside from that, Germany's case is weak indeed.

The audience granted to Ambassador Bernstorff by President Wilson today may serve to give each government a clearer insight into position held by the other, but if there is to be any recession, it must be by Germany. From the first, America has had nothing to debate, and the attempt of the German government to temporize will fail, for lack of a response in kind. It would be to the advantage of Germany to parley and exchange notes until the case lost all its original complexion, but it is certain that, in this, President Wilson will maintain the stand he took for right and nationality after the loss of the Lusitania. He is fighting for American principle directly but for humanity indirectly.

It is the general opinion in this country that Germany does not look upon the situation as serious. It may need the note which President Wilson is expected to send immediately to awake it from its dream of American passivity. If President Wilson reiterates his position and again makes his demands in clear and forceful language, Germany must know what the consequences of its foolish diplomacy must be. This country hopes that we may avoid trouble with any of the belligerents, but all Americans stand firmly with the president whatever course he may pursue. The refusal of Germany to accede to our request will almost certainly be followed by the severing of diplomatic relations, and the rest is veiled darkly in the future, although it plainly involves the possibility of war.

PRISON PIFFLE

Many well disposed persons with the best intentions in the world are talking sentiment run away with their common-sense in all relating to prisons and prison reform. Only a few days ago, news items from Sing Sing related how an experiment at home rule in that institution had resulted in the formation of two social clubs, the "silk stockings" and the "rough necks," and how strong animosity had sprung out between them to the damage of discipline. In this state there has been persistent criticism at laxity in granting pardons indiscriminately, and at agitations that would better the lot of the criminal as a class, without considering the aim of prisons as institutions or weighing the possible results of ridiculous reform schemes on the community.

A news item from Worcester yesterday is of particular interest as indicating the extremes to which some persons would carry their desire for "prison reform." The promoter of a society horse show in a wealthy Worcester suburb had invited the 222 inmates of the Worcester county jail, and all preparation had been made to entertain them in royal style, but the sheriff, Albert F. Richardson, refused permission at the last moment, declaring that it did not appear to be his duty to foster such an outing. The guests at the jail are said to be quite indignant, particularly as the invitation was given at a dinner which the promoter of the horse show held at the jail in February.

There may have been no attempt at self-exploitation in the mistaken kindness of the Worcester individual, but it is a matter for congratulation that his wish was not carried out. True, were prisoners permitted to go to horse shows and theatres, prisons would be more attractive, but the state is not over anxious to have many prisoners to look after, and no one is invited to go to jail. Look at it as you will, such institutions are places of punishment for crime, and are neither vacation resorts nor experimental stations. Treatment of all prisoners should be humane and remedial, but if some reformers had their way they would make a prison term as good as a Florida sojourn or a state junket to the Panama-Pacific exposition.

GULFLIGHT CASE

There is probably more than a mere coincidence in the coming of the official German explanation of the sinking of the American steamer Gulfight on the heels of the answer to President Wilson's note on the sinking of the Lusitania. For the first time in any important matter of controversy the German government admits that a mistake was made, and establishes the precedent already sanctioned by international law, viz: that neutral vessels still have rights that no belligerent may abuse.

It is the contention of the German government that the Gulfight was for property improvement it would not be a drop in the ocean. When then, should our officials countenance such a vast expenditure for ineffectual and incomplete street improvement?

There is undesirable property in Merrimack square, but this is no excuse for running a new street from Merrimack to Paige street. There are several untidy spots on Merrimack street, but it would not be considered an excuse for any further street extension. We have unsightly properties near our postoffice, our depot, our court house, all of our public buildings. Is it the purpose of the city council to improve all of these places? If not, why not? Why should one of the least important be signalled out at a proposed expenditure of $60,000 while Lowell is in absolute need of so many more necessary things?

DAY WELL OBSERVED

The stirring events through which the nation is passing at the present time gave more than the usual significance to local observance of Memorial day; the parade, prayers at cemeteries, decorations of graves, sermons, music and military salutes seemed to mean more than for years past, but withal there was more solemnity and seriousness in the public attitude. The weather was delightful, the heat being tempered with soft, cool breezes, and the various events were calculated to stir up local pride and patriotism as well as give the necessary rest and recreation.

It was noted with sorrow that the ranks of the veterans are thinning more and more and that those who remain are wearing the marks of advanced age. Still, they will be the "boys" in blue while any are left as a link with the past, and there will be more inspiration in their faltering steps than in bugles and drums. It seems but a few years since the Spanish-American war, but even these later veterans wear the marks of vanishing youth. Should the call for volunteers go out tomorrow, it would be the young who would flock most ardently, but they would be young men stirred by the examples of those gone before.

The various athletic events, too, within a few days Lowell has seen an evening parade and a daylight parade. On the basis of beauty or picturesqueness, most will give the palm to the moonlight or electric light observance. The hush of evening, the shadows here and there, the effects of illumination and red fire, and the many possibilities of an evening parade give it a character that one looks for in vain through the day. It is to be hoped that our great White Way observance will be but the first of a series.

A lady who wears diamonds does not care to contrast them with shabby clothing; so with Miss Lowell. She has now been decked with many strings of brilliant jewels, but her sidewalks and shabby buildings are thrown into sad relief. One who sees our defects in the flood of new light cannot but hope for their improvement.

If there is any reasonable doubt as to the guilt of Leo Frank, the jury that convicted him is guilty of a crime. The judge who tried him intimated that he had some doubts. That should be given due weight by the governor of the state.

The London Times is being prosecuted by the English government; Earl Kitchener has his revenge.

A SWEEPING CHARGE

Chairman Walsh of the industrial relations commission which for some time past has been probing the great strike in Colorado in an effort to fix the responsibility for the same has come out in a bitter arraignment of the Rockefeller, especially John D. Jr., as the cause of the trouble. The public opinion of the country has long ago decided that the great strike was due to a lack of mutual sympathy on the part of the mine owners and employees, and though Mr. Rockefeller may have been guilty to some extent, few will believe that the responsibility is his and his only. Mr. Rockefeller may have represented the unbending capitalist, but Colorado has also suffered from the labor and social agitator in his worst form, and the workers were of the type to be inflamed by dangerous and revolutionary doctrines. Now that the wound is healing, the literary invectives of Chairman Walsh will serve anything but a good purpose. The impassioned chairman does not love the gentleman he accuses; he demonstrated that strikingly during the hearings before the commission. It is quite probable that in all sincerity his views have been colored by the glasses of personal and political prejudice that he wore while probing a situation on which he now speaks with so much passion.

Within a few days Lowell has seen an evening parade and a daylight parade. On the basis of beauty or picturesqueness, most will give the palm to the moonlight or electric light observance. ESTABLISHED 1878

LOWELL, MASS. WEDNESDAY, JUNE 2, 1915

PRICE ONE CENT

BROADWAY CLUB BANQUET

Mayor Murphy, Ex-Mayor Casey and Jeremiah O'Sullivan, Esq., Speakers—Fine Entertainment

With a dinner fit for the kings, eloquent and instructive addresses, excellent instrumental and vocal selections and a spirit of hospitality and cordiality that could not be surpassed, the banquet of the Broadway Social and Athletic Club held in their well appointed rooms in upper Broadway last evening proved to be one of the most successful affairs of its kind ever held in this city.

Though in existence but a few months, the Broadway Social and Athletic Club has made rapid progress and now occupies a conspicuous place among Lowell's most noted organizations. It has conducted several very successful parties but never before has such an enjoyable time been held in the rooms that conducted their last evening. From the first number on the program till the final one it was one continuous round of pleasure and those fortunate enough to be included as guests will long remember the first banquet given by the Broadway.

The club rooms were beautifully decorated for the occasion. On the front of the building streamers of red, white and blue hunting were artistically suspended with a large sign with the inscription "Welcome" was conspicuously displayed. The interior decorations included streamers of the national colors and potted plants and ferns arranged advantageously around the speakers' platform.

The program was well diversified and among the speakers were Mayor Dennis A. Murphy, Hon. James B. Casey, Jeremiah O'Sullivan, Esq., President Patrick McCann, Timothy O'Sullivan, chairman of the banquet committee, and Rep. Dennis A. Murphy and William H. Sullivan.

Prior to opening the festivities the members and guests assembled in the rooms above the club at 8:30 o'clock. The club members and all marched to the club rooms where an appetizing turkey supper was served by Caterer Harvey. Music's orchestra furnished music during the supper and also played for the singers.

The most praiseworthy exercises opened with remarks by Chairman O'Sullivan, who thanked all present for their assistance in the past and wished all an enjoyable evening. He then introduced as toastmaster of the evening, Rep. Dennis A. Murphy. The latter representative was never in better form and he performed the arduous duties in a most entertaining and clever manner. President McCann was next called upon and delivered the address of the members. He also gave a brief sketch of the club, stating that it was formed on Nov. 1, 1911, with but a handful of members and that at the present time there are 125 members in good standing.

He emphasized the fact that the Broadway club is not a political organization; its object being to provide athletic and social entertainment for the members. He told of the great response after the first meeting was held and added that members are continuously coming in. He spoke of the successes of the past and told of the buying of a summer camp so that the members and their friends might enjoy outdoor sports during the warmer weather. Pres. McCann congratulated the banquet committee for arranging such an excellent program and also expressed his gratitude to the speakers of the evening.

Mayor Murphy James Dowling then sang "When It's Midnight in Mayo" and he was obliged to respond to an encore. Mayor Murphy was then introduced. He told of the pleasure it gave him to be present at the first banquet of the club and congratulated the organization for its unprecedented progress. He then gave an instructive address on "Opportunity." He told of the opportunities afforded the young men right here in the city of Lowell and urged his listeners to take advantage of the chances offered. He mentioned the Lowell Textile school, the training school, and told of the advantages obtained by a course at either institution. He said that the time has passed when ability is discriminated against and said that the industrial heads now consider efficiency and not nationality. "Great results follow a technical edu-

Assessor O'Sullivan

Inspector of Lands and Buildings Francis A. Connor sang by request "Ireland, I Love You" and he was warmly greeted. For an encore he gave "An Irish Lullaby." Assessor Jeremiah O'Sullivan told of the advantages obtained by membership in such an organization as the Broadway club. The principles are and should be friendship, fidelity and community interest. "By friendship I mean a binding chain of friendship for each other and this leads to the strongest link, fidelity to all. By displaying community interest you can accomplish much for an organization can be a great power in any city. You can bring about many needed improvements in this vicinity, just as others have succeeded in securing improvements. There is no better way than by organization, for in union there is strength.

Mr. O'Sullivan told of the improvements in other parts of the city, such as the town of $500,000 for a new Pawtucket bridge. These were made possible by the community interest manifested by the people in Belvidere and Pawtucketville. Now, take the condition of Adams street. The land there is assessed for 10 cents a foot and the surrounding area is in a deplorable condition. As a suggestion, suppose you members decided to seek an improvement there. With this representative organization behind you, nothing but success would result and the condition would be speedily remedied and the club as well as all those in the vicinity would benefit as a result.

In closing the speaker said that the celebration bore a double significance, inasmuch as June was also the birth month of the American flag. He defined the flag and told of what it stood for, how it stood by the boys at Manila bay, at Santiago and only recently at Vera Cruz and concluded by saying "may it always be the flag of the states and territories of our country."

Walter Clough then gave in his own inimitable manner, "Chimney." He made a great hit and was forced to respond to no less than five encores.

Hon. James B. Casey, the principal speaker of the evening was then called. He gave a stirring address on American citizenship.

In opening his address he paid a touching tribute to the veterans who on Memorial day paraded our streets and marched to the cemeteries to honor their departed brothers. The speaker also urged upon all the necessity of loyalty to President Wilson in these troublous days. During the course of Mr. Casey's address he said: "It is well said that to 'despair of America' would be to 'despair of humanity' and the full force of that statement was never more apparent than in these troublous days. Yes, indeed, the hopes of humanity are centered in America, and under the wise guidance of our noble president, America is prepared to keep alive the principles of humanity as the guiding forces of civilization."

The preservation of our American heritage is our present day obligation. Indifference and weakness in ourselves toward our duties and responsibilities may bring ruin to our national life. Nation proud and grand in the past have succumbed when their people lost all sense of national honor, and failed to maintain the dignity of the state. We are weak and in grave danger, when we proclaim ourselves too powerful and great to listen to the common dictates of humanity, and the commandments of God.

It is well said that American citizenship means equality, but there is not an equality on the part of many citizens in the discharge of their obligations to the state. Some citizens give far more, than others. Some men there are, in every community who enjoy the freedom of our institutions and yet live on year after year and fail to give allegiance to the nation that has offered them opportunity for advancement in life. Some men there are, who are too lazy and indifferent to affairs of state, to take even a passing interest in problems of civic life.

Real citizenship may be displayed only by a real Christian man. The privilege of depositing a ballot at the polling precinct, election day, does not make a man a real citizen. It is the motives and reasons that cause him to vote as he does that counts. And how far these motives and reasons are based upon the purest and best ideals of citizenship. The real test is how well a man may conduct himself in his relations with his fellow man in every day affairs of life.

Our weakness as a nation may only result when our citizens become indifferent and careless in the exercise of citizenship. When citizens become arrayed against one another on matters that have no place in our national life. The most despicable character in American life is the low bred, sneaking, narrow minded bigot, who under the guise of patriotic inspiration, develops issues and disseminates untruths that lead to arouse enmity towards loyal citizens and how futile and unavailing are such efforts, when we consider the broad and liberal principles of our institutions.

A man's citizenship in this republic is a priceless inheritance. It stamps upon him the dignity of manhood. It clothes him in the garb of civic purity and proclaims him to the world, as a man among men. Yes, it does not that, and more, it confers privileges and responsibilities, the acceptance and exercise of which bring real happiness and contentment of mind.

What a wonderful nation is ours! Today, the little boy that you dance upon your knee, that runs the streets unkempt and carefree, that puts a newspaper in your hand at some street corner, is the future man of affairs in this country. He may wear his name in the pages of his country's history through the brilliancy of his achievements.

You are young men possessed of energy and enthusiasm for the things of life. You are ready to engage in problems for material advancement. To accept and enjoy the opportunities that our nation offers you as you progress along the pathway of life. Let me suggest that occasion ally you pause and ask yourselves if you are giving full measure to the state in return for all the blessings of free citizenship conferred upon you. If you take time to think of our responsibilities, you will, I am sure, make good citizens. It is the unthinking man who fails to appreciate the glorious nationality that is his, that becomes lax in citizenship.

Remember that flag you salute on the streets, that was borne by aged and faltering veterans in parade yesterday, is the flag of a free and glorious country. It is the flag that has brought warmth and sunshine to the hearts of oppressed humanity in the days that are past, and it is the flag that in the days soon to come will offer solace and peace to hearts deeply afflicted by a warfare more heinous in its fury and its horrors than hell itself.

James Shugrue then sang "Can You Pay for a Broken Heart" and he was loudly applauded. Babe Rogers, Lowell's premier cabaret entertainer was next called and he made the hit of his long and successful career. He gave "Revival Day" and during its rendition interpolated gestures that would make Billy Sunday look like an amateur. William H. Sullivan then responded for the press. He congratulated the club members for their past successes and wished them all possible happiness and prosperity in the years to come.

Rep. Murphy was the concluding speaker and he thanked all for their attention during the evening and invited the guests to come at any time and enjoy the hospitality of the members. He also told of the interna-touching tribute to the veterans who on Memorial day paraded our streets and marched to the cemeteries to honor their departed brothers. Some men there are, who are too lazy and indifferent to affairs of state, to take even a passing interest in problems of civic life.

Real citizenship may be displayed only by a real Christian man. The privilege of depositing a ballot at the polling precinct, election day, does not make a man a real citizen. It is the motives and reasons that cause him to vote as he does that counts. And how far these motives and reasons are based upon the purest and best ideals of citizenship. The real test is how well a man may conduct himself in his relations with his fellow man in every day affairs of life.

Our weakness as a nation may only result when our citizens become indifferent and careless in the exercise of citizenship. When citizens become arrayed against one another on matters that have no place in our national life. The most despicable character in American life is the low bred, sneaking, narrow minded bigot, who under the guise of patriotic inspiration, develops issues and disseminates untruths that lead to arouse enmity towards loyal citizens and how futile and unavailing are such efforts, when we consider the broad and liberal principles of our institutions.

A man's citizenship in this republic is a priceless inheritance. It stamps upon him the dignity of manhood. It clothes him in the garb of civic purity and proclaims him to the world, as a man among men. Yes, it does not that, and more, it confers privileges and responsibilities, the acceptance and exercise of which bring real happiness and contentment of mind.

What a wonderful nation is ours! Today, the little boy that you dance upon your knee, that runs the streets unkempt and carefree, that puts a newspaper in your hand at some street corner, is the future man of affairs in this country. He may wear his name in the pages of his country's history through the brilliancy of his achievements.

You are young men possessed of energy and enthusiasm for the things of life. You are ready to engage in problems for material advancement. To accept and enjoy the opportunities that our nation offers you as you progress along the pathway of life. Let me suggest that occasion ally you pause and ask yourselves if you are giving full measure to the state in return for all the blessings of free citizenship conferred upon you. If you take time to think of our responsibilities, you will, I am sure, make good citizens. It is the unthinking man who fails to appreciate the glorious nationality that is his, that becomes lax in citizenship.

Hiram C. Gordon, the oldest clerk in point of service at the Lowell post-office, was one of the conspicuous characters at Monday's convention of postoffice clerks and received the congratulations of the visiting delegates. on Feb. 12, 1884. At that time there were six clerks and eight letter carriers employed at the office. In 1884 the late George H. Richardson was superintendent of carriers and James H. Pinder was assistant postmaster. Since then the number of employees at the postoffice has gradually increased and today there are 24 clerks and six substitutes and 82 carriers and 14 substitutes. There are also four special delivery messengers connected with the local office.

Mr. Gordon is now serving under his eighth postmaster. For 18 years he was a stamp clerk and made many friends by his courteous and gentlemanly manners while performing his duty at the window. He was for five consecutive years president and for four years secretary of the local branch of the state association.

The following entertainment was given at yesterday's meeting of the Educational Club. Piano solos, Miriam Smith, Avis Hoome, Evelyn Mears, Kenneth Harvey and Wm. CANADIAN PACIFIC FINED

ADMITS VIOLATING 16-HOUR LAW AS TO EMPLOYMENT—MUST PAY $10 AND COSTS ON EACH COUNT

BANGOR, Me., June 2.—In the United States district court here yesterday, Judge Clarence Hale presiding, the Canadian Pacific railway accused on 19 counts of violation of the 16-hour law as to the employment of trainmen, was fined $10 and costs on each count, the defendant confessing judgment.

The trial of the suit for $10,000 damages for personal injuries brought by Daniel Lehto against Gustave Anderson of Bangor occupied nearly the entire day. The plaintiff claimed Anderson, as a common carrier, was operating an automobile for hire and was intoxicated when an accident happened which resulted in fracturing a leg and other injuries. Witnesses testified that on Nov. 7, 1913, Anderson was driving a party of three outside the city of Bangor when the car was overturned. One of the party received fatal injuries. Evidence was admitted that Anderson had been drinking and was driving at a high rate of speed.

The defense, it is understood, will be that the accident was caused by the "breaking of a wheel."

Richard J. McGarrigle of Calais, J. P. Nounline, J. G. O'Connor, Albert P. Cook and Simon J. Levi of Bangor were admitted to practice in the United States courts.

FOR BIRD PROTECTION

SECRETARY OF NEW HAMPSHIRE AUDUBON SOCIETY GIVES "INTERESTING TALK ON NATIVE BIRDS"

Members of the Lowell Fish and Game association and their friends, enjoyed a very interesting talk last evening on "Our Native Birds, and Why They Should be Protected." The speaker was Rev. Manly B. Townsend, secretary of the Audubon society of New Hampshire. Mr. Townsend is a recognized authority on bird life. He said in part:

"The ruthless slaughter of the game birds in this section has all but obliterated the duck, geese, plovers and grouse that were at one time plentiful. The birds swarmed in New England, especially during the migrating season, and it was not an uncommon sight to see thousands of them hereabouts. In these days, however, as the result of wholesale slaughter of these birds, some of them have been completely wiped out. The passenger or wild pigeon was as common here at one time as any bird, but said to relate, the last one in captivity died last September."

"Dr. William T. Hornaday makes the startling statement that since the country at least 95 per cent. of the wild life has disappeared. Swan and geese migrated here at one time, but now there are no swan and precious few geese."

"There are two good reasons why birds should have protection. The birds have a value entirely apart from their economic importance. No one could bear to think of a birdless world, for they add greatly to the joy of life through their song, bright colorings and their sprightliness. Then, again they have an economic importance beyond all measure. But for the birds it is probable that man could not live on the earth. This is a broad statement, but it is true, nevertheless. They hold the insect pest in check. But for the destruction of insects wrought by birds, all green things would be eaten. When we consider the enormous fecundity of insects, that a single pair of potato beetles in one year, if permitted to breed unchecked, would produce 60,000,000 offspring, and many other insects are even more prolific breeders, we can realize something of the beneficial work done by these birds."

"A single species of bird, the tree sparrow, destroys in the state of Iowa, so it is estimated, $15 tons of weed seeds per year. The United States department of agriculture estimates that insects cause a loss to agriculture in the United States of more than $700,000,000 a year."

"In this section water fowl once swarmed, but now only gull and shorebirds are found in comparatively small numbers. It is possible, by arousing a public opinion to increase bird life in this state and New England generally," said the speaker. "The public should take an active part in protecting the birds. This can be done by winter-feeding, tying up snare about trees and protecting the game life from the horrors of our New England winter by putting up nesting boxes where they can save their brood from insect enemies, and by preventing the foreign population from pot hunting and snaring. And lastly by educating the school children to the importance of bird life to the general welfare of the existence of man."

NEW PRIEST FOR LOWELL

Fr. Tattan Sent to St. Michael's—Fr. Mitchell Leaves North Chelmsford—22 Changes

His Eminence, Cardinal O'Connell, has assigned about a dozen young priests who were ordained to the priesthood last Friday to parishes, and has also transferred about half a dozen other curates. He has established another independent parish, the section known as Houghs Neck at Quincy, Rev. Fr. Mark E. Madden, for many years attached to St. Thomas Aquinas church in Jamaica Plain, is assigned to be the first pastor.

The list of appointments and transfers, which becomes operative next Thursday, is one of the largest for some time. It is given in the current issue of the Pilot. The transfers include several priests who have figured in transfers in the immediate past, made then, no doubt, to meet temporary requirements. The transfers embrace practically every section of the diocese from Cohasset to Lowell and Lawrence.

The establishing of the new parish at Houghs Neck was not unexpected. The church property is well established, there is a comfortable parish house, known as the Red Lion cottage before being purchased for a priest's house, and the church is adequate to meet the needs of the district for some time. There are 21 curates affected by the appointments. The other recently ordained curates, some half dozen or eight in number, will also be assigned in the immediate future, as many are needed for the summer period.

List of Appointments
The appointments and transfers are as follows:
Rev. Fr. Mark E. Madden, assistant at St. Thomas church, Jamaica Plain, appointed pastor of new parish, St. Francis by the Sea, Houghs Neck, Quincy.

with any or all of its 29 subsidiary companies, subject to the ratification of two-thirds of the stockholders of the roads affected. Should reorganization be deemed impracticable, the directors are given power to form an entirely new corporation.

One of the compromise sections is that which permits the Boston & Maine to buy the Hampden Road, a line 12 miles long, built by private capital at great expense. The price is to be fixed by the public service commission.

A feature of the bill added late in its passage, is a provision forbidding the officials of the reorganized companies participating in interlocking directorates or to sell supplies to the road through other corporations in which they may be interested.

AUTO TURNED TURTLE
An automobile driven by R. E. Heron of this city turned turtle on the Post road, Hampton, N. H., throwing Mr. Heron and another occupant unharmed beneath the machine. Neither was derailed beyond a few scratches and both were extricated by members of another automobile party who saw the accident and lifted the car. The car was but slightly damaged.

GOV. WALSH SIGNS MEASURE PROVIDING FOR REORGANIZATION OF B. & M. RAILROAD.

BOSTON, June 2.—The bill providing for reorganization of the Boston & Maine railroad system, which has been a subject of much discussion, was signed by Governor Walsh last night. Under its provisions the federal trustees of the road may begin at once the work of rehabilitating the road which has been threatened with the necessity of a receivership. Similar legislation was enacted in Maine, but failed in the legislatures of New Hampshire and Vermont.

The act signed by Governor Walsh is a compromise measure, the principal provisions of which were drawn by George W. Anderson, attorney for the public service commission.

PRES. WILSON SENDS WARNING TO MEXICO

The Factional Leaders Must Act Promptly or United States Will — Recognition of Peace Party

WASHINGTON, June 2.—In a statement to the American people today, President Wilson served notice on the factional leaders of Mexico that unless within "a very short time" they unite to set up a government, which the world can recognize, the United States "will be constrained to decide what means should be employed by the United States in order to help Mexico save herself and serve her people."

Signaling a change from the "watchful waiting" policy which has guided relations with Mexico for more than two years, the president's statement was regarded in official and diplomatic quarters as notice of a new

300,000 RUSSIANS WERE CAPTURED DURING MAY

Austro-German Grip on Przemyśl Tightening—Rumania and Bulgaria to Enter War

The Austro-German grip on Przemyśl is tightening. The official announcement from the Berlin war office today states that further entrenchments to the north of the city have been captured, although the Russian military authorities assert that attacks on these outlying fortifications have been repulsed.

The German war office also announced that during the month of May more than 300,000 Russians were taken prisoners.

Severe Fighting
Severe fighting occurred yesterday on the western end of the Franco-Belgian front, north of Arras. The French war office claims that the allies penetrated Neuville and captured several houses as well as trenches near the town. The Berlin announcement, however, asserts this attack was repulsed.

British Steamer Torpedoed
The British steamer Saidieh, from Alexandria, Egypt, for Liverpool, was torpedoed yesterday in the North sea. Seven persons, including a woman, were drowned, and 41 survivors were landed at Chatham.

Bulgaria and Rumania
The attitude of Rumania is said to be causing concern in Berlin. The feeling is expressed in some quarters there that Austria-Hungary should make territorial concessions to ensure Rumania's neutrality. A Bucharest despatch to Paris says Bulgaria has obtained territorial grants from Rumania, and that Rumania is engaged in similar negotiations with Russia. Under this plan, it is said, Rumania will go to war against Austria and Bulgaria against Turkey.

Enormous Losses
The status of military operations in Galicia is made still more confused by the latest official report from Petrograd. To the north of Przemyśl where important successes for the Austro-German forces are claimed at Berlin and Vienna, it is said, the Russians repulsed their opponents with enormous losses. The Russian war office acknowledges that one fort was broken into but declares the attackers were subsequently expelled. Consistent successes all along the eastern front are claimed by the Austrians and Germans, who stated specifically that three forts north of Przemyśl were captured.

Belgians Again Active
The Belgian army is once more in the thick of battle. A statement from the Belgian war ministry indicates that the Germans are assaulting their position of the front. It is said, however, that the Germans were unable to advance and that they suffered from a heavy fire of guns massed by the Belgians.

YOUTH AND BEAUTY AT SPALDING PARK

Annual Field Day of High School Attracts Thousands of Admiring Friends of Pupils to Ball Grounds—Several Beautiful Maneuvers Executed

With colors flying gaily in the wind, while the swords of the officers and the highly polished muskets and accoutrements of the privates and non-commissioned officers glittered in the sunlight, the boys' regiment of the high school marched out of the Spalding park at one o'clock this afternoon on its way to Spalding park for its 34th annual field day.

While the boys were taking up their march to the park via the usual route through John to Merrimack, to Central to Church, to Andover, to High to Rogers and thence to the ball grounds, the members of the three high school girls' battalions boarded special cars for the park for they, too, were a part of the annual gala day. As has been the case for the past several years, the girls' battalions formed on the right of the field in front of the first base bleachers with the officers at the head, when word was brought that the school boy cadets were within a short distance of the ball park. The girls' officers then marched across the field and broke up into battalion order. They were followed immediately by their battalions who marched on a line formed by the halted officers.

A Striking Maneuver
The officers retreated forming a line in front of the background of girls. The secret of this maneuver was then discovered amid great applause by the interested and admiring spectators. L. H. S. was spelled out before the grandstand by the girls, each wearing a pink in her hair. It was a novel and appreciated feature of the annual field day. A moment later still lead by the Sixth regiment band the boys' regiment entered the park and marched in columns of fours around the outside fringe of the girls. A few commands and the boy soldiers faced toward the hollow square wherein stood out the three pink letters.

With Col. Warren and Lieut. Col. McCarthy standing with drawn swords in front of the entire assembly, the band closely followed by the colors, two beautiful silken flags and surrounded by the color guards, marched around from the rear and across the foreground of the picture.

Salute to Colors
While the band played the "Star Spangled Banner," the most inspiring feature of the afternoon's program, was presented. The cadets presented arms, the grandstand and bleachers arose in their seats, the men uncovering while Old Glory fluttered merrily in the breeze to the accompaniment of our National hymn. As the strains of "The Star Spangled Banner" drifted away the band drifted into a lively march and boys and girls alike marched along the field. The boys' regiment broke up into battalions and then these were subdivided into companies along the outskirts of the park. The girls' battalions traced their steps back to their former positions in front of the first base bleachers. The salute to the colors was perhaps the most awe-inspiring event of any of the high school's many field days. The next event on the program was the individual prize drill, 20 privates and non-commissioned officers, marching on in single file from the grandstand while the judges whipped out their note books for the elimination contest. The judges for this event were: Major John McMahon of Wakefield, Capt. Duncan McGilvray of Stoneham, Capt. Edward J. Connelly of Wakefield. The squad was under the command of Regimental Adj. Charles D. Foley.

The entire regiment crowded in behind the squad of prize drillers. Officers as well as privates deeply interested in the outcome. The girls, too, showed great interest in the competitive drilling and crowded in from their side. During the individual drill, the LOS ANGELES, Cal., June 2.—Charles E. Sebastian, chief of police, is today mayor-elect of Los Angeles, according to indications of the nearly completed count of votes of yesterday's election. His estimated plurality over Frederick H. Whiffen, president of the city council, was 5000 votes.

Sebastian's election followed his acquittal, after a sensational trial, on a charge of contributing to the dependency of Edith Berklin, a minor. His adherents asserted that the charges against the chief were part of a plot to prevent his election.

Mrs. Estelle Lawton Lindsey was elected to the city council.

NEWS FROM CITY HALL AND DEPARTMENT WORK

City to Buy Over $25,000 Worth of Coal—Mayor Murphy in Springfield Today

The city is about to expend $25,000 or more on coal for various departments and while bids were opened on Saturday last nothing definite as to the probable awards was made known until today as some of the bids had to be submitted to experts in order to ascertain the lowest bid. The heat units had to be reckoned with in order to regulate the bids and the real bid came in the lot known as lot C. This lot comprised six grades of coal aggregating 3723 tons and at first flush it looked as if the Horne Coal Co. was the lowest bidder, but the experts found that the heat units in the Horne company's coal was slightly under that of Daniel T. Sullivan's coal. This disclosure raised the price of Horne's coal.

TYNGSBORO FIRE CASES

More Expert Testimony by Defense—Model Locomotive Explained—Jury Waived Session

One of the most interesting cases ever tried before the civil session of the local superior court is certainly that of the Tyngsboro fire cases brought against the Boston & Maine railroad, for expert testimony is being produced on both sides in great array. For the defense Daniel J. Smith, master mechanic for the Boston & Maine railroad, testified this morning relative to locomotives, their construction and workings. In order to facilitate the task of Mr. Smith, an exact reproduction of a locomotive was set before the jury and as the talk went on, the expert pointed to the different parts of the mechanism.

The locomotive model was about a yard in length. It was built of sheet metal and an exact duplicate of the large type locomotive used on the B. & M. railroad. It was cut in halves, thus affording a view of the interior mechanism. Mr. Smith's testimony consisted mostly of explaining how sparks are formed in the fire box, and he showed the various routes the said sparks has to travel before issuing out of the smokestack. He also explained the various screens the spark has to go through before reaching the smokestack and how the spark, if large, is reduced considerably before escaping by the smokestack to the open air.

During the testimony of Mr. Smith, Justice Stevens left the bench and took a standing position with the jury, in order to thoroughly understand the expert's testimony, as well as the workings of the mechanism.

Jury Waived

In the jury waived session, Justice Hamilton presiding, the case of Mary Frances Murray vs. John B. Murray, a case of alleged fraud, was heard this forenoon. In this case the plaintiff brought suit to recover property, which she claims the defendant obtained through a fraudulent scheme. The plaintiff and defendant came from Everett. The plaintiff is the step-mother of the defendant. She claims her husband, who was the father of the defendant, died and left an estate. She also claims that on Aug. 10, 1914, the defendant, falsely and fraudulently claiming that he wished and desired to have administration taken out upon the estate of the late Hugh M. Murray, induced the plaintiff to sign a paper, falsely and fraudulently represented by him to be a petition to the probate court for administration upon said estate. She claims the paper was a warrant deed conveying the property to the defendant.

Prof. Hunsaker Testifies
A feature of the testimony at yesterday afternoon's session of the case of the Tyngsboro fire cases against the Boston & Maine railroad, which is on trial in the civil session of the superior court, was the calling to the witness stand of Lieut. J. C. Hunsaker, an expert in charge of the department of aeronautics at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, to meet the expert testimony given on the side of the plaintiffs Friday afternoon by Col. Butler Ames of this city.

BOARD OF TRADE REPORT

Annual Meeting and Election of Officers—Sec. Murphy's Report Reviews Activities of Past Year

Robert F. Marden and John H. Murphy were elected president and secretary respectively of the Lowell board of trade at the annual meeting which was held last night in the rooms of the organization in Central street. The attendance at the meeting was larger than expected, which shows that the members are deeply interested in the doings and welfare of the board. An amendment to the constitution was adopted and interesting reports were given by the president, secretary and other men connected with the organization. The meeting was presided over by Robert F. Marden and two new members, William L. Gookin and Anthony Paprowicz, were elected to membership. The following amendment to the constitution of the board was adopted: "Any corporation whose capital stock exceeds $400,000 may become a corporate member of the board of trade in the name of the corporation upon the payment of $25 per year, and shall be entitled therefor to five representatives in the board of trade." The election of officers was held with the following result: President, Robert F. Marden. First vice president, Charles H. McIntire.

Second vice president, Harold L. Chalifoux. Third vice president, James C. Reilly. Treasurer, Edward B. Carney. Auditor, William F. Hills. Clerk, Irving D. Kimball. Directors—Hon. Dennis J. Murphy, mayor; former-President Jesse H. Shepard, former-President Walter S. Watson, former-President Alonzo G. Walsh, former-President Henry A. Smith, former-President Harvey B. Greene, former-President George M. Harrigan, Hon. Eron B. Barlow, J. Harry Boardman, William H. Bolger, George Bowers, Daniel F. Carroll, Aulo D. Clay, Harry Dunlap, Herford N. Elliott, Frederic A. Fisher, Walter E. Guyette, Fred F. Haywood, Gardner W. Macartney, Clarence H. Nelson, Thomas J. O'Donnell, Patrick O'Hearn, William H. Penn, Stanley E. Qua, Frank Ricard, Will Rounds, Charles Runels, Arthur W. Saunders, Daniel W. Shanahan, William A. Vandenbergh, Percy J. Wilson, Cyrus Woodman. A feature of the meeting was the reading of the annual report of Secretary John H. Murphy, who reviewed all the doings of the board during the past year. The paper was a long one, but contained valuable information concerning the different moves of the organization during the past twelve months. The report in part is as follows: The more important activities which have demanded the time and attention of the board have been the following: the Merrimack river navigation problem, the question of determining the standing of the city from a fire hazard standpoint and the adjustment of insurance rates, the holdings of interesting monthly meetings, increasing the membership, advancing the interests of the city and a general supervision over such matters as pertain to the ordinary and routine work of a commercial organization, including such special events as the horticultural show and the Lowell day. The officials appreciate the kind cooperation and assistance rendered by the members and also the cooperation of the municipal council on many matters during the year. Congressman John Jacob Rogers, who on numerous occasions rendered valuable aid and assisted materially in various ways in such a splendid spirit is sincerely thanked and recognized in this manner.

The Meetings The general meetings of the board have been very successful and the affairs have been gratifying to members and officials. The speakers and guests of the various occasions have been men of standing and have discussed live topics of interest. Among the distinguished guests were the following: Congressman John Jacob Rogers, Congressman Samuel E. Winslow, Congressman A. P. Gardner, Lieut. General Nelson A. Miles, U. S. A., retired, Hon. Robert Luce, Hon. John P. Fitzgerald, Hon. John N. Cole, Mr. Roger W. Babson, Mr. Edwin D. Meade, president World's Peace Foundation, Mr. A. W. Douglas of St. Louis, Mr. Hamilton Holt, editor of the Independent, Professor William I. Hull of Swarthmore college, Internal Revenue Collector John F. Malley, Mr. A. R. Sutherland, of the Merrimack Valley Waterway board, Mr. S. Wales Dixon, supervisor of playgrounds of Hartford, Conn.; Col. William D. Sohier of the highway commission, former Senator Malcolm E. Nichols and Hon. Dennis J. Murphy. River Problem During this entire year in working out the problem relative to the navigability of the Merrimack river it has been the policy of the committee having this matter in charge to consolidate all interests in the city. The first effort was to secure the return from Washington of the adverse report made by Col. W. E. Craghill. This was accomplished by a pilgrimage to Washington where the request was made and granted. In preparing to offer the army engineer further evidence which might lead him to change his adverse report to a favorable one, the committee became cognizant of the fact that the locks and canals and the textile mills were probably antagonistic to the project. In order to take their point of view into consideration and to make sure that the committee was urging nothing that would tend to wreck the comfort and prosperity of existing industries in Lowell, letters were written to all the mill and water power men asking for an expression of opinion from them. Many responses were received indicating that the mill interests were something more than doubtful about the river plan. At their suggestion the secretary and the president conferred one afternoon with five of the mill agents and this was followed by a conference at the board of trade rooms at which were present a dozen mill men and water power engineers and some other of the important shippers and receivers of freight and coal in the city. Mr. Mills of the Locks and Canals frankly stated his objections to the river plan, but in response to the vital question agitating the minds of your committee Mr. Mills unequivocally stated that the winter power of Lowell would not be disturbed materially and further agreed that it was not an engineering impossibility to make arrangements to connect the river's falls and of the ship channel with the city. The board made a complete study of ornamental lighting as pertaining to cost and type of light and after purchasing a series of newspaper articles furnished by officials from cities having up-to-date lighting systems the board recommended to the municipal council an appropriation for the installation of the present system. Owing to the general depression of business, occasioned by the many parent causes, the work of securing new industries was somewhat hampered. The new enterprise committee, however, has been extremely busy and is now in touch with industries and when conditions are more favorable, will probably be able to locate them in Lowell. The work accomplished by the membership committee is worthy of the highest words of commendation. Persistent and systematized campaigning has brought the membership of the board to the highest standing in its history. Today there are 791 members who have paid their 1915 assessment and there still remains 139 members who will remit during the coming months. This gives the board a total of 930 in round numbers. New members to the number of 228 were secured during the year. This is the largest number of members on record and the numerical strength of the Lowell board of trade compares very favorably with the boards of trade in other cities of equal size. An attempt to make the membership reach the 1000 mark will be made in the fall.

U. S. NOTE TO GERMANY

Cabinet Approves Pres. Wilson's Policy—Note Brief and Sharp—Bernstorff Visits Pres. Wilson

WASHINGTON, June 2.—Count Bernstorff, the German ambassador, had an audience with President Wilson today at noon, in the Blue Room of the White House. The ambassador motored to the White House through a down-pour of rain. Inasmuch as the conference was of an informal character no announcement concerning it was expected to be made.

It was understood, however, that the object of the ambassador's call was to gain from the president an idea of the points in the last American note which the United States is determined to insist upon, and to give the president an idea of the German view-point.

The president, it was said, showed willingness to explain the position of the United States and to make it clear that it had been decided on only after careful consideration by the cabinet yesterday when it was decided to send a note of inquiry asking whether the imperial government would abide by the principle of international law. The president, it also was understood, gave his views, expecting the ambassador to enlighten the Berlin government on the earnest intentions of the United States to obtain a strict accountability for the loss of Americans on the Lusitania. The visit was friendly and cordial.

Italian Ambassador Calls
While Count von Bernstorff was with the president, the Italian ambassador, Count Marchese di Celere, arrived, but the two diplomats, whose nations are on opposite sides in the war, did not meet.

White House officials declined to make any statement regarding Count von Bernstorff's visit, saying the engagement was made at the ambassador's request and that it would be improper for the president to say anything concerning it.

Reports that the ambassador had made any definite proposals were generally discounted. The president has already begun the preparation of the next note to Germany and it was not expected that the call of the ambassador would have any material effect on either its sense or its wording.

Immediately after his visit to the White House Count von Bernstorff returned to the embassy and went into conference with the head of the chancellery. It appeared that he was about to communicate with Berlin.

Working On New Note
With the exception of the hour divided between the German and Italian ambassadors, President Wilson spent the entire morning in his study working on the new note, which officials expect will go before the cabinet Friday and be dispatched to Berlin immediately afterward.

Wants to Prevent Rupture
The German ambassador has told friends that he realizes the seriousness of the situation and is anxious to do all he can personally to prevent a rupture in friendly relations. He is unable to communicate easily, however, with his government because German cables were cut by the allies. Consequently high officials did not believe the ambassador could bring any proposal from the German government differing from the answer which Herr von Jagow, the German foreign minister, gave to the American note last Saturday. This was pronounced unsatisfactory in cabinet council yesterday.

The importance of the conference, however, lies in the fact that although the reply was sought without instruction from the German government, the views which the president might express to the ambassador would be transmitted by the latter to Berlin, and would, naturally, be taken into consideration there in connection with the note which the United States government plans to send before the end of the present week.

"Strict Accountability"

The unwavering determination of the United States to hold Germany to a "strict accountability" for violations of American rights is to be embodied in the note, the drafting of which was under way today. The main point of the document, which is to be brief and will be despatched before the end of the week, very probably will be an inquiry to ascertain definitely and promptly if the German government intends to adhere to the principles of international law hitherto accepted universally, or to conduct its maritime warfare according to its own new rules. Refusal to recognize the principles set forth by the United States that every unarmed merchantman must be visited and searched, and passengers and crew transferred to a place of safety, before the vessel and cargo of contraband is destroyed will be followed, it is generally predicted, by a severance of diplomatic intercourse with Germany.

Another Request for Reparation
Acceptance of the principle in such a way as to guarantee the safety of American lives would lead, it was believed, to a reiteration of the request for reparation due the families of the American victims of the Lusitania and a disavowal of the act.

Count von Bernstorff's visit to the White House today, it was thought possibly might have a far-reaching effect on the solution of the problem. The ambassador is said to be anxious to know personally exactly what course the United States would like Germany to follow with reference to submarine warfare so that he can transmit details to Berlin. On the other hand, there was pessimism in some quarters over the ambassador's visit because, it was pointed out, the American point of view had been explained in detail by Ambassador Gerard in Berlin to high German officials. The engagement had been set for the noon hour.

SERGT. O'LEARY ALIVE

WRITES LETTER TO PARENTS DENYING THAT HE WAS KILLED IN BATTLE

A special despatch to New York from London says:
Sergeant Michael O'Leary, who won the Victoria Cross by killing eight men and capturing two trenches, a machine gun and two prisoners all alone, has written to his parents, after reading obituary notices proclaiming him the bravest man in the British army. His letter says:

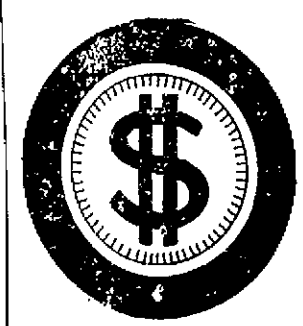

"I see in today's papers that I have been killed in action. No; I am still on the firing line doing my bit for king and country. I trust God is not going to call me soon, or until I have done a bit more for my country. 'I can't see out of the last battle with only a few scratches, thank God!'"

O'Leary's death was reported in London last Friday. It brought from the press more glowing praise than has followed the loss of any other subordinate British officer since the war began.

BIG ORGAN ATTACHED BY JULIUS CAHN OF NEW YORK IN SUM OF $1000

The $10,000 organ which was recently installed at the Lowell Opera House, and which by virtue of a mortgage is the property of the Weurlitzer Organ Co. of New York, was attached this morning in the sum of $1000 in an action of contract brought by Julius Cahn of New York, former proprietor of the Opera House. Mr. Cahn, who is represented by A. S. Goldman, Esq., of this city, is suing to recover an alleged commission for the sale of the said organ to Lowe & Green, former lessees of the Opera House. He claims he was to receive a commission of five per cent as agent for the Weurlitzer Organ Co. in the sale of the said organ to Lowe & Green, the said commission amounting to $500. The attachment was made this morning and the papers were filed with the city clerk this noon.

At the close of this case an action of contract to trial. This was the case of Derby & Co., of Lowell vs. Julius Cahn of New York. In this case the plaintiffs brought suit to recover the sum of $500 for wiring the Lowell Opera House, of which the defendant is a former proprietor. Qua, Howard & Rogers appear for the plaintiffs and A. S. Goldman for the defendant.

AN EVASIVE REPLY

In his famous note to Germany President Wilson in unmistakable terms asked that Germany should acknowledge the injustice of the sinking of the Lusitania, should make reparation so far as possible for the American lives lost and should give a guarantee that such warfare on neutrals should cease. It was intimated plainly that Germany could not respect the rules of international law while engaged in a submarine warfare against merchant ships, and it was intimated still more plainly that the American government stood ready to back up its demands by immediate acts.

After waiting until further delay would have aroused strong animosity in this country, Germany has sent an answer that ignores every main point in President Wilson's note, asserts Germany's right to sink the Lusitania, quotes American law to justify the outrage, expresses little or no regret and promises no cessation of submarine activity. By some, the German note is regarded as a statement of facts as Germany sees them; by others it is regarded as a challenge—though this interpretation is for America to make officially or not, as its leaders see fit.

It is questionable if the German government really believes as it pretends to believe in this answer. It states that the Lusitania was an auxiliary British cruiser, was armed with cannons carried below deck, carried Canadian troops and ammunition and used Americans merely as a cloak to cover war movements. All of these charges have been disproved beyond question. Had she been an auxiliary cruiser, the proper course would have been for Germany to call for her internment in our port. Had she carried guns, our government officials would have known and forbidden her engaging in the American passenger service. There is no evidence to support the claim that she carried Canadian troops, and the ammunition was of the variety carried by passenger vessels at all times. Even admitting that the charges were true, it would not justify the attack on neutrals, but aside from that, Germany's case is weak indeed.

The audience granted to Ambassador Bernstorff by President Wilson today may serve to give each government a clearer insight into position held by the other, but if there is to be any recession, it must be by Germany. From the first, America has had nothing to debate, and the attempt of the German government to temporize will fail, for lack of a response in kind. It would be to the advantage of Germany to parley and exchange notes until the case lost all its original complexion, but it is certain that, in this, President Wilson will maintain the stand he took for right and nationality after the loss of the Lusitania. He is fighting for American principle directly but for humanity indirectly.

It is the general opinion in this country that Germany does not look upon the situation as serious. It may need the note which President Wilson is expected to send immediately to awake it from its dream of American passivity. If President Wilson reiterates his position and again makes his demands in clear and forceful language, Germany must know what the consequences of its foolish diplomacy must be. This country hopes that we may avoid trouble with any of the belligerents, but all Americans stand firmly with the president whatever course he may pursue. The refusal of Germany to accede to our request will almost certainly be followed by the severing of diplomatic relations, and the rest is veiled darkly in the future, although it plainly involves the possibility of war.

PRISON PIFFLE

Many well disposed persons with the best intentions in the world are letting sentiment run away with their common-sense in all relating to prisons and prison reform. Only a few days ago, news items from Sing Sing related how an experiment at home rule in that institution had resulted in the formation of two social circles, the "silk stockings" and the "rough necks," and how strong animosity had sprung out between them to the damage of discipline. In this state there has been persistent criticism at laxity in granting pardons indiscriminately, and at agitations that would better the lot of the criminal as a class, without considering the aim of prisons as institutions or weighing the possible results of ridiculous reform schemes on the community.

A news item from Worcester yesterday is of particular interest as indicating the extremes to which some persons would carry their desire for "prison reform." The promoter of a society horse show in a wealthy Worcester suburb had invited the 222 inmates of the Worcester county jail, and all preparation had been made to entertain them in royal style, but the sheriff, Albert F. Richardson, refused permission at the last moment, declaring that it did not appear to be his duty to foster such an outing. The guests at the jail are said to be quite indignant, particularly as the invitation was given at a dinner which the promoter of the horse show held at the jail in February.

There may have been no attempt at self-exploitation in the mistaken kindness of the Worcester individual, but it is a matter for congratulation that his wish was not carried out. True, were prisoners permitted to go to horse shows and theatres, prisons would be more attractive, but the state is not over anxious to have many prisoners to look after, and no one is invited to go to jail. Look at it as you will, such institutions are places of punishment for crime, and are neither vacation resorts nor experimental stations. Treatment of all prisoners should be humane and remedial, but if some reformers had their way they would make a prison term as good as a Florida sojourn or a state junket to the Panama-Pacific exposition.

GULFIGHT CASE

There is probably more than a mere coincidence in the coming of the official German explanation of the sinking of the American steamer Gulfight on the heels of the answer to President Wilson's note on the sinking of the Lusitania. For the first time in any important matter of controversy the German government admits that a mistake was made, and establishes the precedent already sanctioned by international law, viz: that neutral vessels still have rights that no belligerent may abuse.

It is the contention of the German government that the Gulfight was for property improvement it would not be a drop in the ocean. When then, should our officials countenance such a vast expenditure for ineffectual and incomplete street improvement?

There is undesirable property in Merrimack square, but this is no excuse for running a new street from Merrimack to Paige street. There are several untidy spots on Merrimack street, but it would not be considered an excuse for any further street extension. We have unsightly properties near our postoffice, our depot, our court house, all of our public buildings. Is it the purpose of the city council to improve all of these places? If not, why not? Why should one of the least important be signalled out at a proposed expenditure of $60,000 while Lowell is in absolute need of so many more necessary things?

DAY WELL OBSERVED

The stirring events through which the nation is passing at the present time gave more than the usual significance to local observance of Memorial day; the parade, prayers at cemeteries, decorations of graves, sermons, music and military salutes seemed to mean more than for years past, but withal there was more solemnity and seriousness in the public attitude. The weather was delightful, the heat being tempered with soft, cool breezes, and the various events were calculated to stir up local pride and patriotism as well as give the necessary rest and recreation.

It was noted with sorrow that the ranks of the veterans are thinning more and more and that those who remain are wearing the marks of advanced age. Still, they will be the "boys" in blue while any are left as a link with the past, and there will be more inspiration in their faltering steps than in bugles and drums. It seems but a few years since the Spanish-American war, but even these later veterans wear the marks of vanishing youth. Should the call for volunteers go out tomorrow, it would be the young who would flock most ardently, but they would be young men stirred by the examples of these gone before.

The various athletic events, too,

Suffered Everything Until Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Florence, So. Dakota.—"I used to be very sick every month with bearing down pains and backache, and had headache a good deal of the time and very little appetite. The pains were so bad that I used to sit right down on the floor and cry, because it hurt me so and I could not do any work at those times. An old woman advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I got a bottle. I felt better the next month so I took three more bottles of it and got well so I could work all the time. I hope every woman who suffers like I did will try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. P. W. LANSING, Box S, Allen, Wash.

Why will women continue to suffer day in and day out or drag out a sickly, half-hearted existence, missing three-fourths of the joy of living, when they can find health in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?

For thirty years it has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has restored the health of thousands of women who have been troubled with such ailments as displacements, inflammation, ulceration, tumors, irregularities, etc. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotics or harmful drugs, and today holds the record of being the most successful remedy for women's ills known.

were a worthy part of the day's observance. The ball game, the Bunting club events, the horse races all had their following, stirring up enthusiasm and healthy interest in minds that had a brief respite from labor that they might ponder on the American past. It was a memorable day, well observed and thoroughly enjoyed by all our people.

A SWEEPING CHARGE

Chairman Walsh of the industrial relations commission which for some time past has been probing the great strike in Colorado in an effort to fix the responsibility for the same has come out in a bitter arraignment of the Rockefeller, especially John D. Jr., as the cause of the trouble. The public opinion of the country has long ago decided that the great strike was due to a lack of mutual sympathy on the part of the mine owners and employees, and though Mr. Rockefeller may have been guilty to some extent, few will believe that the responsibility is his and his only. Mr. Rockefeller may have represented the unbending capitalist, but Colorado has also suffered from the labor and social agitator in his worst form, and the workers were of the type to be inflamed by dangerous and revolutionary doctrines. Now that the wound is healing, the literary invectives of Chairman Walsh will serve anything but a good purpose. The impassioned chairman does not love the gentleman he accuses; he demonstrated that strikingly during the hearings before the commission. It is quite probable that in all sincerity his views have been colored by the glasses of personal and political prejudice that he wore while probing a situation on which he now speaks with so much passion.

Within a few days Lowell has seen an evening parade and a daylight parade. On the basis of beauty or picturesqueness, most will give the palm to the moonlight or electric light observance. The hush of evening, the shadows here and there, the effects of illumination and red fire, and the many possibilities of an evening parade give it a character that one looks for in vain through the day. It is to be hoped that our great White Way observance will be but the first of a series.

EVERY DAY ETIQUETTE

"Do you think it would be correct for me to wear a linen colored dress out on the porch this morning?" asked the little widow who had been in mourning only a few months.

"You should not wear a linen colored dress. You may, however, wear all white during the warm days of summer. Not until two years have passed should you wear colors," answered her mother.

"Kindly advise me what" is the proper way to address an announcement that is sent to the father, mother and family," asked Alice over the phone one morning.

"It is not proper to make a single announcement serve for an entire household. One invitation should be sent to 'Mr. and Mrs. Smith' another to the 'Misses Smith' and another to the 'Messrs. Smith,'" answered her aunt.

"Should a girl write a note of thanks for her escort for flowers which he has sent her to wear to a party or will verbal thanks be sufficient, and does a man go first when entering a theatre or church one morning?"

"Thank your escort for the flowers in person, that will be sufficient. A man enters any public place first to open the heavy doors and make way for his companion," answered her governess.

CEMETERY COMMISSION

MEMBERS OF NEW COMMISSION ARE "FEASED UP" OVER CRITICISM EMANATING AT CITY HALL

The cemetery commission will meet Friday evening and they do say that certain ones at city hall are to be taken to task for saying things about the commission. At a previous meeting the commission voted to buy sites for the Edison cemetery and the commission also voted to ask the city solicitor for an opinion relative to its authority in connection with the purchase of material and supplies. The day after the meeting, and before he had heard that he was going to be called upon for an opinion, City Solicitor Hennessy talked with newspaper representatives and told them that any material or supplies for the cemetery would have to be purchased through the purchasing agent's office. Purchasing Agent Foster, too, stated that all supplies would have to be purchased through his office and that he would refuse to approve the bill for the sites which the cemetery commission voted to buy. Now the cemetery commission, or certain members thereof, take the stand that the city solicitor and the purchasing agent were speaking out of their turn and that they were not exercising the usual or proper courtesy to the new commission. In entering it before the city solicitor's opinion asked for by the commission, had been received, Mr. Simon B. Harris allows that he will teach 'em a little parliamentary etiquette at city hall.

JOSEPH BAZINET, GIVEN TERM OF NOT LESS THAN FOUR YEARS—CONVICTED OF EMBEZZLING

WORCESTER, June 2.—Joseph Bazinet, ex-treasurer of the Millbury St. Jean Baptiste Society, was sentenced to superior court by Judge Sanderson yesterday to serve not less than four nor more than six years in state prison.

He was convicted on indictments charging him with larcenies and forgeries by which he embezzled $2700 of the society's funds. While the indictments charged him only with that amount, there was testimony that he wiped out all but less than $100 of a fund of more than $1000 that the society had in reserve. His stealings, it is claimed, covered most of the 19 years that he was treasurer.

Joseph Lavinsky of Worcester, convicted of misconduct, was sentenced to not less than five nor more than ten years in state prison.

PEACEFUL BEAUTY OF MIDDLE AGE

As long as the middle aged woman feels young she will seem young and she will feel young only as long as she can live in the present and future and not in the past. In dress she must not repeat the mistake of former days and compete for the adornment triumphs in which the young have the advantage. Friendship, intellectual and social triumphs, useful work and absorbing hobbies are the opportunities before the middle aged woman. She should determine to be self sufficient, for the nearer she approaches a serene independence of the favors of others the happier she will be and the pleasanter companion she will make. She should be ready to give but not too eager to receive, since for tragedy is sadder than that of the mother whose desire for the children who have gone away, cuts like a sword into her soul, or of the single woman because love has passed her by.

The woman of old times who lived by her affections often suffered cruelly, but what broke her heart generally causes the modern woman to harden hers, as she is beginning to have interests of her own which do not wholly forsake her even in circumstances of distressing loneliness and disappointment. She finds so much to do and to see, for there has never been an era like the present one, so rich in opportunities for useful work, for traveling and for culture.

'HUGGER' CALLED

Says He Often Held Woman Head of Hos- pital in His Lap

HAVERHILL, June 2.—An ineffectual attempt to close the public hearing of evidence on charges against Alice C. Marshall, superintendent of the Tuberculosis hospital, was made yesterday afternoon when Judge John J. Ryan and Attorney Peters called into conference Mayor Bartlett, the municipal council and the board of administration of the hospital. That there might be no criticism that the session was an executive one, the newspaper men were invited to be present. Members of the municipal council decided that a full hearing of the evidence would be necessary before they could reach any conclusions, and the hearings will be continued next Friday morning.

The afternoon session was largely attended, hundreds being turned away because of the lack of accommodations in the double council chamber and the corridors. Several times Mayor Bartlett was required to call council members and also to direct the policemen to suppress disturbances in the audience.

Frank Freeman, aged 19, of Boston, who has been mentioned by all previous witnesses as "the hugger," was on the witness stand for an hour and a half. He caused laughter by his ready admissions that he had hugged the superintendent, the nurses and the cook, had violated rules and escaped punishment, and held the superintendent on his lap many times and had been given money by her and many other attacks at the hospital.

Freeman was discharged from the hospital and went to Boston, but didn't want to take treatment at the institution designated by the Boston health officials and he returned to this city and later went to Maine.

Miss Ethel A. Crombie of the Lawrence Municipal hospital was under cross-examination by Judge Ryan the first part of the afternoon and she didn't change her direct testimony. She corroborated the other nurses in that beer and whisky had been served at the hospital. She admitted she drank some of the beer, but denied that young Freeman ever hugged her.

Mayor Murphy went to Springfield today to attend the meeting of the Massachusetts Mayors' Association being held in that city. Usually the meetings take place in Boston or vicinity, but the attractiveness of Springfield and the excellent reception it gives to visitors, induced the association to listen favorably to Mayor Stacey's invitation. The mayor is accompanied by Commissioner Morse who will attend the meeting of the State Highway Association to be held in Springfield this evening. Early in the evening a banquet will be served in the Nayasset club and tomorrow morning members of the State Highway Association and the visiting mayors will inspect the streets.

Three things are conceded above all others to make Springfield attractive to the mayors and street superintendents. One is that it has the finest city hall in the country, a hall that affords valuable interest to those cities which may be contemplating the erection of new municipal office buildings. A second is that in the new commercial high school it has the latest developments in school facilities, and in the other schools some of the finest buildings of the kind in the country.

A third is that the streets in Springfield are considered to be the best paved and the best kept in New England. The street department is not only better equipped than those of other New England cities, but accomplishes more and better work on the same amount of money than the majority of them, according to admission of officials from other cities who have inspected the street work here.

THE MAN IN THE MOON

The rain that came and stayed long enough to compel the postponement of the Lowell day observances meant disappointment to many thousands of people; and although Friday's exercises were successfully carried out, the occasion lacked the presence of many out-of-towners which a pleasant Wednesday would have brought hither. But there's no use in kicking. When the weather man says rain, it rains, and that's all there is to it. It's a bigger man than the entire board of trade—even bigger than any member of the municipal council, too. However, we have the lights, and you don't hear anybody who pronounces them other than mighty fine.

Now that we have light, let us hope to see the way clear for some adequate provision made for scores and scores of tuberculous victims who for a long time have been neglected and left to live or die for all the city of Lowell cared; also up-to-date ambulance service. It cannot be that human life and human suffering are matters of minor importance in this community. I've been in this town for some years and quite agree with the state of tuberculous victims who for a long time have been neglected and left to live or die for all the city of Lowell cared; also up-to-date ambulance service. It cannot be that human life and human suffering are matters of minor importance in this community.

Illuminate City Hall Tower

Harry Graves, the architect, said to me the other day that there's one thing the city should do to make a fitting crown to the "Great White Way," and that was the illumination of city hall tower. It's rather strange that nobody suggested this thing before. The cost of putting up the strings wouldn't be very much, and we wouldn't much mind what it cost to light 'em up. The lighting of the tower would undoubtedly be a great thing, anyway, or from the point of view of the city. What I think of the idea, good people of the board of trade, and you, too, kind gentlemen of the municipal council? I'm not taking any credit myself to putting this up to you. I pass it to my friend, Harry Graves who, being an architect, knows what he's talking about when speaking on matters relating to his profession. I do hope the papers will take up this city hall tower illuminating subject. It's a good thing—pass it along.

The Straw Lid

The poor old straw lid had a hard time of it ever since the great furnishing stores filled their windows with them and the dealers in them announced with much flourish that the straw hat season had arrived. Time may be more considerate than her predecessor and may afford many of us an opportunity to show our courage by taking the hat which we bought at a bargain price last fall and wearing it in public. We will not be in style, of course, but if our lids are comfortable ones we'll be well enough and be careless as to whether it rains or not. It's a good thing not to be too finical and to have the nerve to stand up in our boots and refuse, once in a while, to bow to fashion. Now I've tried to preach this to Dr. Kearney, Henry Williams, Dr. Carroll, Joe Leary, Martin Kelly, Jerry O'Sullivan, John P. Meacham, Henry Turcotte and several other friends of mine, but might as well have preached to the moon.

Memorial Day Reflections

It is about 50 years since Lee surrendered and most of the soldiers of the Union army were mustered out and returned to their homes. And 50 years ago, to the age of the youngest discharged soldier and we have it, he still survives, a man of at least 70 years of age. Of say the million men who were mustered out in '65 and those whose terms of enlistment had expired before that date and who had returned to their homes, how many, think you, are living today? So fully few are they that one could estimate on observing the number of veterans who turned out last Monday on our streets. Death has been no more considerate with that million of old soldiers since '65 than he has with a million men who didn't go to the front in '61 or so. Perhaps, indeed, he has been exact for obvious reasons, a greater toll. The frequency with which we see the flag at half-staff over the several posts of the G. A. R. tells us that here, as elsewhere, the old veterans are dropping off like the leaves in autumn, are paying the penalty of accumulated years—or are they reaping their rewards? The years are not many when the last surviving veteran will have passed on to give the countersign for entrance into the Great Camp "under the trees on the other side of the river." Happily, Memorial day will not cease to be with the passing of the soldiers of '61 from earthly scenes. There are those who will ever, we trust, regard the day in its true significance, and, as well as they can, keep it from further desecration. The intelligent and serious-minded who are familiar with the history of their country know the debt which they owe to the devotion and labor of these old soldiers, nor do they fail in esteem and veneration for these over-weathered groups of veterans who year by year to deck the graves of their former comrades.

Capt. McDonald's Anniversary

Capt. Michael E. McDonald was 72 years of age on the 25th ult., thus making him two days younger than his friend and fellow veteran of the Civil war, Capt. Geo. E. Worthen. In 1861, when in his 17th year, Captain McDonald at Camp Chase joined an independent company of cavalry and from that time kept the close of the war saw, with the exception of the time he lay in the hospital suffering from the effects of a bullet which entered his right groin, continuous service. In speaking of his hospital experience, the captain declares that he owed his life to the suggestion of a German, also a soldier, who occupied a neighboring room in the hospital. The German told him that a "German cup" would cure his wound. Telling the surgeon what the German said, instead of calling down the German for his presumption, the surgeon admitted he hadn't thought of it and sent to New Orleans by the next packet for some. This treatment was applied with the result that Mac began to improve. Yet from that old wound the captain still suffers no little distress and he doesn't often think it might have been as well if he had gotten no farther in the war with the south than Georgia Landing on the Mississippi. Yet he did. He rallied from his hurt to serve much longer in the department of the Gulf, served under Sherman in the Shenandoah Valley and rode, finally, as captain of a troop of cavalry in the great review at Washington after Lee's surrender. When you can get the captain to talk about war-times in the easily forgetful, you may consider yourself fortunate, for the captain's intelligence is of a high order and his powers in graphic description are remarkably impressive. Like many another old veteran born in Lowell he saw four years of active service which redound to his own credit and the cause he fought for. I asked him once how he, a mere youth, came to enlist. He answered that he was engaged in carting straw from his father's farm to Camp Chase and so it happened that he met natural things in the world that he wanted to become a member of that company of cavalry they were raising. As everybody knows, Capt. McDonald has long been connected with the police department, that from a patrolman he was promoted from rank to rank and that he was city marshal in 1883, and 1884. With the rank of inspector for many years, he has been assistant to the city solicitor in which capacity his services to the city are invaluable. Former Superintendent of Police Moffatt recently told me that when he was made chief he very much wanted and tried to get McDonald for his deputy. He wanted him, the ex-chief expressedly, "for his brother English." I asked him, he added, "as he was faithful and efficient as a soldier, so he has been in the years of service he has given to the city of his birth. Of the company of independent cavalry that left Camp Chase in '61, Capt. McDonald alone survives. Today, his many friends, while aware of the fact that the captain's health is no longer what it once was, are not without undue sufferings, he has long spared to them. They esteem him, not only for what he did, but for what he is and what he stands for today—an ideal type of the American soldier of the War of the Rebellion, a good citizen, a firm friend, a man of broad intelligence and one whose soldierly bearing and kindly heart, bespeak the gentleman."

SWORN IN AS MEMBER OF BOSTON CITY COUNCIL—COUNCILOR WATSON OPPOSED HIS ELECTION

BOSTON, June 2.—James J. Storrow was yesterday sworn in by Mayor Curley as member of the Boston city council.

In the gallery of the council chamber, but seated so that his husband could not see her, sat Mrs. Storrow. "Mrs. Storrow said she would be present, but assured me that she would take a seat where I could not see her," the new councilor explained.

The ceremony of swearing in the new member was very short. On the council assembly, Mr. Storrow was seated at the left of the president, which has been occupied by the late William H. Woods—third from the end and between Councilors Conlathurst and Collins. President Coleman sent City Messenger Leary for the mayor, who entered the chamber within a few minutes after the order was given.

Mr. Storrow was sworn in standing before the desk of the city clerk.

After the oath of office was administered and Councilor Storrow was escorted back to his seat by the city message, Mayor Curley congratulated the council on the acquisition of Councilor Storrow in the following words:

"Mr. President and Gentlemen of the City Council, I desire to contribute to the council on the addition that has this day been made to its membership, and to congratulate the city of Boston on the fact that one of its sons, who has been in the city since he was born, has been elected to the city of Boston and his talent for the Boston of the future."

President Coleman spoke briefly for the council. The mayor then retired.

Before any business was transacted, Councilor Watson spoke on a question of personal privilege. He addressed himself to Councilor Storrow and assured him that his opposition to the election of Storrow was not against Mr. Storrow, but against the methods adopted by the members who brought about his election without disclosing his name until practically the roll-call. Mr. Watson said he and the other members who voted against Mr. Storrow were not given a second's notice of the other members' intention as to filing the vacancy caused by the death of William H. Woods.

TRACT BOUGHT AT LESS THAN $5 AN ACRE—WASTE LAND TO BE PLANTED AND PROTECTED

BOSTON, June 2.—The final detail of the establishment of the first state forest in Massachusetts, a tract of 1600 acres in Winchendon, was transacted at the office of State Forester Frank W. Rane yesterday when the members of the state forest commission signed the deed.

The vast tract, which is now merely waste land, is located mainly in Winchendon, on the northerly boundary of Massachusetts. Miller's river runs through it and the Otter river has its outlet there.

This land is to be a state forest forever and absolute deeds in the name of the Commonwealth are to be registered in Worcester county assessor's office into one almost 50 deeds from former owners. The state forester is to plant it, protect it and care for it.

An average price of less than $5 per acre was paid. The land was bought under the law enacted in 1914 creating the state forest commission and appro-

Peace in Mexico or U. S. Will Intervene

PRES. WILSON SENDS WARNING TO MEXICO

The Factional Leaders Must Act Promptly or United States Will —Recognition of Peace Party

WASHINGTON, June 2.—In a statement to the American people today, President Wilson served notice on the factional leaders of Mexico that unless within "a very short time" they unite to set up a government which the world can recognize, the United States "will be constrained to decide what means should be employed by the United States in order to help Mexico save herself and serve her people."

300,000 RUSSIANS WERE CAPTURED DURING MAY

Austro-German Grip on Przemyśl Tightening—Rumania and Bulgaria to Enter War

The Austro-German grip on Przemyśl is tightening. The official announcement from the Berlin war office today states that further entrenchments to the north of the city have been captured, although the Russian military authorities assert that attacks on these outlying fortifications have been repulsed.

The German war office also announced that during the month of May more than 300,000 Russians were taken prisoners.

Severe Fighting
Severe fighting occurred yesterday on the western end of the Franco-Belgian front, north of Arras. The French war office claims that the allies penetrated Neuville and captured several houses as well as trenches near the town. The Berlin announcement, however, asserts this attack was repulsed.

British Steamer Torpedoed
The British steamer Saidieh, from Alexandria, Egypt, for Liverpool, was torpedoed yesterday in the North sea. Seven persons, including a woman, were drowned, and 41 survivors were landed at Chatham.

Bulgaria and Rumania
The attitude of Rumania is said at London to be causing concern in Berlin. The feeling is expressed in some quarters there that Austria-Hungary should make territorial concessions to ensure Rumania's neutrality. A Bucharest despatch to Paris says Bulgaria has obtained territorial grants from Rumania, and that Rumania is engaged in similar negotiations with Russia. Under this plan, it is said, Rumania will go to war against Austria and Bulgaria against Turkey.

Enormous Losses
The status of military operations in Galicia is made still more confused by the latest official report from Petrograd. To the north of Przemyśl where important successes for the Austro-German forces are claimed at Berlin and Vienna, it is said the Russians repulsed their opponents with enormous losses. The Russian war office acknowledges that one fort was broken into but declares the attackers were subsequently expelled. Consistent successes all along the eastern front are claimed by the Austrians and Germans, who stated specifically that three forts north of Przemyśl were captured.

Belgians Again Active
The Belgian army is once more in the thick of battle. A statement from the Belgian war ministry indicates that the Germans are assaulting their portion of the front. It is said, however, that the Germans were unable to advance and that they suffered from a heavy fire of guns massed by the Belgians.

YOUTH AND BEAUTY AT SPALDING PARK

Annual Field Day of High School Attracts Thousands of Admiring Friends of Pupils to Ball Grounds—Several Beautiful Maneuvers Executed

With colors flying gaily in the wind, while the swords of the officers and the highly polished muskets and accoutrements of the privates and non-commissioned officers glittered in the sunlight, the boys' regiment of the high school marched out of the Paige street annex at one o'clock this afternoon on its way to Spalding park for its 34th annual field day.

While the boys were taking up their march to the park via the usual route—through John to Merrimack, to Central, to Church, to Andover, to High, to Rogers and thence to the ball grounds, the members of the three high school girl battalions boarded special cars for the park for they, too, were a part of the annual gala day. As has been the case for the past several

The girls' battalions formed on the right of the field in front of the first base bleachers with the officers at the head, when word was brought that the school-boy cadets were within a short distance of the ball park. The girls' officers then marched across the field and broke up into battalion order. They were followed immediately by their battalions who marched on a line formed by the halted officers.

A Striking Maneuver
The officers retreated forming a line in front of the background of girls. The secret of this maneuver was then discovered and great applause by the interested and admiring spectators. L. H. S. was spelled out before the grandstand by the girls, each wearing a pink in her hair. It was a novel and appreciated feature of the annual field day.

A moment later still led by the Sixth regiment band the boys' regiment entered the park and marched in columns of fours around the outside fringe of the girls. A few commands and the boy soldiers faced toward the hollow square wherein stood out the three pink letters.

With Col. Warren and Lieut. Col. McCarthy standing with drawn swords in front of the entire assembly, the band closely followed by the colors, two beautiful silken flags and surrounded by the color-guard, marched around from the rear and across the foreground of the picture.

Salute to Colors
While the band played the "Star Spangled Banner," the most inspiring feature of the afternoon's program, was presented. The cadets presented arms, the grandstand and bleachers arose in their seats, the men uncovering while Old Glory fluttered merrily in the breeze to the accompaniment of our National hymn. As the strains of "The Star Spangled Banner" rolled away, the band drifted into a lively march and boys and girls alike marched along the field.

The boys' regiment broke up into battalions and then these were subdivided into companies along the outskirts of the park. The girls' battalions traced their steps back to their former positions in front of the first base bleachers. The salute to the colors was the most awe-inspiring event of any of the high school's many field days.

The next event on the program was the individual prize drill, 20 privates and non-commissioned officers marching on in single file from the grandstand while the judges, who had their note books for the elimination contest. The judges for this event were: Major John McMahon of Wakefield, Capt. Duncan M. Stewart of Stoneham, Capt. Edward J. Connolly of Wakefield. The squad was under the command of Regimental Adj. Charles D. Foley.

The entire regiment crowded in behind the squad of prize drillers. Officers as well as privates deeply interested in the outcome. The girls, too, showed great interest in the competitive drilling and crowded in from their side. During the prize drill, the rest of the boys' regiment sat down in their various companies' positions around the field.

After a long series of rifle maneuvers, facing, etc., Regt. Adj. Foley led the squad of individual prize drillers of the field while the judges held out of the original 20 who had managed to live through the ordeal. Those who appeared for the second series of maneuvers were: Sergis Moushagian, Leadbetter, Mahoney, Sullivan, Curney and Largo. Privates McElroy, Bartlett and Kilroy.

The second and last session of the individual prize drill was of short duration, the judges making their choice for the gold and silver medals with little waste of time. The decisions, however, were not announced until late in the afternoon.

The Girls' Battalion

While the band, which was now seated in front and to the left of the stage struck up a lively march-step, the girls of the second battalion marched onto the field in front of the grandstand and guarded by their company officers, first formed a square. The blue ribbons in their hair and at the throat of their sailor blouses, with their white dresses provided a very pleasing picture. After circling the officers, the second battalion broke into columns of four, each girl, officer and private alike, carried a wand over her right shoulder. Major Olive Messer then mounted the stage improvised for this purpose, and to the accompaniment of the band, led her battalion through the wand drill. Major Messer and her second battalion charges were roundly applauded at the conclusion of this pretty drill. Before the battalion marched off the field the boy officers issued forth and presented the girl officers with huge bouquets, while the spectators continued to applaud.

Guard Mount and First Aid

Hardly had the wand drillers left the field when I company of the Boys' regiment took its place for guard mount. With the company drawn up in line across the field the officers made their inspection. At this point an exhibition of first aid work was given, two privates of I company officiating as the victims. They were carried off in the stretchers before the eyes of the multitude.

Dumb Bell Drill

The girls of the third battalion preceded by their officers next marched on. The girls of this battalion wore red hair-ribbons and ribbons of the same color around the collars of their white sailor suits. Each girl carried a pair of dumb bells in her right hand, and a hollow square was formed in the same manner as that used by the second battalion. The square then broke up into lines of fours which opened ranks leaving space enough between each line for the girls to swing their dumb bells. Major Marion O. Gott was in command and issued her orders from a stage. The dumb bell exercises were gone through with a precision

NEWS FROM CITY HALL AND DEPARTMENT WORK

City to Buy Over $25,000 Worth of Coal — Mayor Murphy in Springfield Today

The city is about to expend $25,000 or more on coal for various departments and while bids were opened on Saturday last nothing definite as to the probable awards was made known till today as some of the bids had to be submitted to experts in order to ascertain the lowest bid. The heat units had to be reckoned with in order to regulate the bids and the real mixup came in the lot known as lot C. This lot comprised six grades of coal aggregating 3723 tons and at first flush it looked as if the Horne Coal Co. was the lowest bidder, but the experts found that the heat units in the Horne company's coal was slightly under that of Daniel T. Sullivan's coal. This disclosure raised the price of Horne's coal to the level of Sullivan's. Continued on Page 7 which brought forth exclamations of delight from the spectators. Once more the boy officers came forward with floral tributes to the girl leaders of this battalion amid a general band clapping.

The Bayonet Drill

G company next advanced in front of the grandstand and gave a demonstration of the bayonet drill as practiced today among the warring armies, especially those of the Germans. In the European conflict, Major Kiltredge, military instructor of the high school, inaugurating this drill. Although the bayonets were not affixed to the rifle muzzles the same evolutions were gone through as those which are dealing death every day across the ocean. The bayonet drill was probably the most interesting feature of the boys' program this afternoon.

Under the direction of Miss Etta Phillips, instructor of girls' calisthenics of the high school, the entire group of freshman girls skipped gaily onto the field and proceeded to portray several folk dances. This was the last military feature of the day's program and received untold applause. Three numbers were given by the freshman girls: Irish Lilt, Ox Dansen and Pierrot and Pierrette.

Competitive Co. Drill

The competitive company drill for the blue and red pennants was between Companies E, D and F. Company E first taking the field and being followed by D and F. The rifle and drum corps brought each company on in turn. While the judges watched every movement closely with a ready note book and pencil each company was put through its paces. The judgment as to the winner, however, was withheld till later.

The remainder of the program was: Indian club drill, girls' third battalion silent drill, A company, regimental parade, L. H. S. R.

NARRATIVE FROM AN OFFICIAL OBSERVER—ENGINEER CORPS

PLAY IMPORTANT PART IN WAR

PARIS, June 2, 6 p. m.—The part played by engineering corps in the fighting in the region of Arras is described in a narrative from an official observer attached to the French army, given out here tonight.

"In the vicinity of Carency the battle has been conducted by use of mines since January," the observer writes. "The calm courage shown by our men in the face of great dangers is especially worthy of mention. In this region the galleries and subterranean connecting trenches are more than a mile and a half in length and the quantity of explosives used from March 6 to May 1, is more than 25 tons.

On May 9 an attack was begun on Carency. Early in the morning the attack was prepared by artillery, and simultaneously by the explosion of 17 mine fields, which destroyed completely a majority of the enemy's barbed wire fortifications and breastworks and demolished the enemy's subterranean passages. German sappers and miners were killed outright, only seventy being captured.

This gave great courage to our infantry in charging, owing to the knowledge that the ground beneath was not mined and that they need not fear that any minute they might be blown up.

Many other places also were captured owing to the splendid work and long preparation of the engineers. Their work was particularly valuable at Lorette and Decauville. The work of the sappers, in the construction of trenches, bomb proofs, platforms for guns and superimposed galleries also has been excellent. As soon as ground

Annual Meeting and Election of Officers—Sec. Murphy's Report Reviews Activities of Past Year

Robert F. Marden and John H. Murphy were reelected president and secretary respectively of the Lowell board of trade at the annual meeting which was held last night in the rooms of the organization in Central street. The attendance at the meeting was larger than expected, which shows that the members are deeply interested in the doings and welfare of the board. An amendment to the constitution was adopted and interesting reports were given by the president, secretary and other men connected with the organization.

The meeting was presided over by Robert F. Marden and two new members, William L. Gookin and Anthony Paprowicz, were elected to membership. The following amendment to the constitution of the board was adopted: "Any corporation whose capital stock exceeds $400,000 may become a corporate member of the board of trade in the name of the corporation upon the payment of $25 per year and shall be entitled therefore to five representatives in the board of trade."

The election of officers was held with the following result:
President, Robert F. Marden.
First vice president, Charles H. McIntire.

Second vice president, Harold L. Chaffin.
Third vice president, James C. Reilly.
Treasurer, Edward B. Carney.
Auditor, William F. Hills.
Clerk, Irving D. Kimball.

Directors—Hon. Dennis J. Murphy, mayor, former President Jesse H. Shepard, former President Walter S. Watson, former President Alonzo G. Walsh, former President Henry A. Smith, former President Harvey B. Greene, former President George M. Harrigan, Hon. Erson B. Barlow, J. Harry Boardman, William H. Bolger, George Bowers, Daniel F. Carroll, Milo D. Clay, Harry Dunlap, Horford N. Elliott, Frederic A. Fisher, Walter E. Guyette, Fred F. Haywood, Gardner W. Macarney, Clarence H. Nelson, Thomas J. O'Donnell, Patrick O'Hearn, William H. Penn, Stanley E. Qua, Frank Ricard, Will Rounds, Charles Runels, Arthur W. Saunders, Daniel W. Shanahan, William C. Vandenberg, Percy J. Wilson, Cyrus Woodman.

A feature of the meeting was the reading of the annual report of Secretary John H. Murphy, who reviewed all the doings of the board during the past year. The paper was a long one, but contained valuable information concerning the different moves of the organization during the past twelve months.

The more important activities which have demanded the time and attention of the board have been the following: The Merrimack river navigation problem, the question of determining the standing of the city from a fire hazard standpoint and the adjustment of insurance rates, the holding of interesting monthly meetings, increasing the membership, advancing the interests of the city and a general supervision over such matters as pertain to the ordinary and routine work of a commercial organization, including such special events as the horticultural show and the Lowell day.

The officials appreciate the kind cooperation and assistance rendered by the members and also the cooperation of the municipal council on many matters during the year and Congressmen John Jacob Rogers, who on numerous occasions rendered valuable aid and assisted materially in various ways in such a splendid spirit is sincerely thanked and recognized in this manner.

The general meetings of the board have been very successful and the efforts have been gratifying to members and officials. The speakers and guests of the various occasions have been of the highest caliber and have discussed live topics of interest. Among the distinguished guests were the following: Congressman John Jacob Rogers, Congressman Samuel E. Winslow, Congressman A. P. Gardner, Lieut. General Nelson A. Miles, U. S. A. retired, Hon. Robert Luce, Hon. John F. Fitzgerald, Hon. John N. Cole, Mr. Roger W. Babson, Mr. Edwin D. Meade, President World's Peace Foundation, Mr. A. W. Douglas of St. Louis, Mr. Hamilton Holt, editor of the Independent, Professor William I. Hall of Swarthmore college, Internal Revenue Collector John P. Malloy, Mr. A. B. Sutherland of the Merrimack Valley Waterway board, Mr. S. Wales Dixon, supervisor of playgrounds of Hartford, Conn.; Col. William D. Sohier of the highway commission, former Senator Malvina E. Nichols and Hon. Dennis J. Murphy.

River Problem

During this entire year in working out the problem relative to the navigability of the Merrimack river it has been the policy of the committee having this matter in charge to consolidate all interests in the city. The first effort was to secure the return from Washington of the adverse report made by Col. W. E. Craighill. This was accomplished by a pilgrimage to Washington where the request was made and granted. In preparing to offer the army engineers further evidence which might lead him to change his adverse report to a favorable one, the committee became cognizant of the fact that the Locks and Canals and the textile mills were probably antagonistic to the project. In order to take their point of view into consideration and to make sure that the committee was urging nothing that would tend to wreck the comfort and prosperity of existing industries in Lowell, letters were written to all the mill and water power men asking for an expression of opinion from their many responses were received indicating that the mill interests were something more than doubtful about the river plan. At their suggestion the secretary and the president conferred one afternoon with five of the mill agents and this was followed by a conference at the board of trade rooms at which were present a dozen mill men and water power engineers and some other of the important shippers and receivers of freight and coal in the city. Mr. Mills of the Locks and Canals frankly stated his objections to the river plan, but in response to the vital question as to the future of the city, he agreed that it was not an engineering impossibility to make arrangements to connect the Hunt's falls and of the ship channel with the city.

The board made a complete study of ornamental lighting as pertaining to cost and type of light and after publishing a series of newspaper articles furnished by officials from cities having up-to-date lighting systems the board recommended to the municipal council an appropriation for the installation of the present system.

Owing to the general depression of business, occasioned by the many apparent causes, the work of securing new industries was somewhat hampered. The new enterprise committee, however, has been extremely busy and is now in touch with industries and when conditions are more favorable, will probably be able to locate them in Lowell.

The work accomplished by the membership committee is worthy of the highest words of commendation. Persistent and systematized campaigning has brought the membership of the board to the highest standing in its history.

Today there are 791 members who have paid their 1915 assessment and there still remains 139 members who will remit during the coming months. This gives the board a total of 930 members in round numbers. New members to the number of 228 were secured during the year.

This is the largest number of members on record and the numerical strength of the Lowell board of trade compares very favorably with the boards of trade in other cities of equal size. An attempt to make the membership reach the 1000 mark will be made in the fall.

Train Service

Despite the financial condition of the Boston & Maine fewer trains were discontinued on the southern division, of which Lowell is a part, than on any other division of the system. Communications and conferences with Supt. J. D. Tyler resulted in the continuance on the summer schedule of the 10:58 a. m. express to Boston and the 1 p. m. from Boston.

The board has maintained a bureau of legislative bills and documents and through the committee on legislation, has kept close watch on bills affecting the city or its interests.

Fire Prevention

Probably no greater work was undertaken and carried out with more zeal than the work accomplished by the fire prevention committee, dealing with the many problems of the condition of the city as pertaining to fire hazards and also endeavoring to determine the proper basis for insurance rates. The committee has held 12 meetings and many conferences with officials of the New England Insurance Exchange, the National Board of Fire Underwriters, Factory Mutual Insurance association, and the members of the municipal council. The committee has made a thorough study of the interests of the city in the National Board of Fire Underwriters and has suggested to the municipal council such recommendations as were found to be feasible for the city in this report.

A report of this nature would not be complete if it did not recognize the very valuable assistance rendered by the local newspapers. Publicity is the keynote of successful work and due acknowledgment of the high service of the newspapers of Lowell to the cause is hereby given. The representatives of the various papers have always endeavored to co-operate and have been courteous, painstaking and accurate on all occasions.

Conclusion

The Lowell board of trade has completed another year of its usefulness to the general community and that its efforts have been successful, is in no small degree cause for rejoicing. An organization which has for its object the advancement of the general interests of the city is worthy of enthusiastic moral and financial support. Lowell, a city of opportunities, has been fortunate during the past year in not having any crisis such as has been the experience of other cities during this trade depression period. This is the result of the diversity of industries located here and with this in mind, in the future the board will strive to increase the number and kind of industries, which will result in continued prosperity.

Secretary Murphy in conclusion thanked the members for their cooperation and continued confidence.

The Financial Report

Auditor William F. Hills in the absence of the treasurer, submitted the latter's report, which in brief is as follows:

President Marden and the chairman of the various committees also submitted their reports, which showed the organization to be in a very progressive condition.

U. S. NOTE TO GERMANY

Cabinet Approves Pres. Wilson's Policy—Note Brief and Sharp—Bernstorff Visits Pres. Wilson

WASHINGTON, June 2.—Count Bernstorff, the German ambassador, had an audience with President Wilson today at noon in the Blue Room of the White House. The ambassador motored to the White House through a downpour of rain. Inasmuch as the conference was of an informal character no announcement concerning it was expected to be made.

It was understood, however, that the object of the ambassador's call was to gain from the president an idea of the points in the last American note which the United States is determined to insist upon, and to give the president an idea of the German viewpoint.

The president, it was said, showed willingness to explain the position of the United States and to make it clear that it had been decided on only after careful consideration by the cabinet yesterday when it was decided to send a note of inquiry asking whether the imperial government would abide by the principle of international law. The president, it also was understood, gave his views, expecting the ambassador to enlighten the Berlin government on the earnest intentions of the United States to obtain a strict accountability for the loss of Americans on the Lusitania. The visit was friendly and cordial.

Italian Ambassador Calls

While Count von Bernstorff was with the president, the Italian ambassador, Count Macchi di Cellere, arrived, but the two diplomats, whose nations are on opposite sides in the war, did not meet.

While officials declined to make any statement regarding Count von Bernstorff's visit, saying the engagement was made at the ambassador's request and that it would be improper for the president to say anything concerning it.

Reports that the ambassador had made any definite proposals were generally discounted. The president has already begun the preparation of the next note to Germany and it was not expected that the call of the ambassador would have any material effect on either its sense or its wording.

Immediately after his visit to the White House Count von Bernstorff returned to the embassy and went into conference with the head of the chancellery. It appeared that he was about to communicate with Berlin.

Working on New Note

With the exception of the hour divided between the German and Italian ambassadors, President Wilson spent the entire morning in his study working on the new note, which officials expect will go before the cabinet Friday and be dispatched to Berlin immediately afterward.

Wants to Prevent Rupture

The German ambassador has told friends that he realizes the seriousness of the situation and is anxious to do all he can personally to prevent a rupture in friendly relations. He is unable to communicate easily, however, with his government because German cables were cut by the allies. Consequently high officials did not believe the ambassador could bring any proposal from the German government differing from the answer which Herr von Jagow, the German foreign minister, gave to the American note last Saturday. This was pronounced unsatisfactory in cabinet council yesterday.

The importance of the conference, however, lies in the fact that although the interview was sought without instruction from the German government, the views which the president might express to the ambassador would be transmitted by the latter to Berlin, and would, naturally, be taken into consideration there in connection with the note which the United States government plans to send before the end of the present week.

"Strict Accountability"

The unwavering determination of the United States to hold Germany to a "strict accountability" for violations of American rights is to be embodied in the note, the drafting of which was under way today. The main point of the document, which is to be brief and will be despatched before the end of the week, very probably will be an inquiry to ascertain definitely and promptly if the German government intended to adhere to the principles of international law hitherto accepted universally, or to conduct its maritime warfare according to its own new rules. Refusal to recognize the principles set forth by the United States that every unarmed merchantman must be visited and searched, and passengers and crew transferred to a place of safety, before the vessel and cargo of contraband is destroyed will be followed, it is generally predicted, by a severance of diplomatic intercourse with Germany.

Another Request for Reparation

Acceptance of the principle in such a way as to guarantee the safety of American lives would lead, it was believed, to a relaxation of the request for reparation due the families of the American victims of the Lusitania and a disavowal of the act.

Count von Bernstorff's visit to the White House today, it was thought possibly might have a far-reaching effect on the solution of the problem. The ambassador is said to be anxious to know personally exactly what course the United States would like Germany to follow with reference to submarine warfare so that he can transmit details to Berlin. On the other hand, there was pessimism in some quarters over the ambassador's visit because, it was pointed out, the American point of view had been explained in detail by Ambassador Gerard in Berlin to high German officials. The engagement had been set for the noon hour.

SERGT. O'LEARY ALIVE

WRITES LETTER TO PARENTS DENYING THAT HE WAS KILLED IN BATTLE

A special despatch to New York from London says:

Sergeant Michael O'Leary, who won the Victoria Cross by killing eight men and capturing two trenches, a machine gun and two prisoners all alone, has written to his parents, after reading obituary notices proclaiming him the bravest man in the British army. His letter says:

"I see in today's papers that I have been killed in action. No, I am still on the firing line doing my bit for king and country. I trust God is not going to call me soon, or until I have done a bit more for my country."

"I came out of the last battle with only a few scratches, thank God!" O'Leary's death was reported in London last Friday. It brought from the press more glowing praise than has followed the loss of any other spardinate British officer since the war began.

The $10,000 organ which was recently installed at the Lowell Opera House, and which by virtue of a mortgage is the property of the Weurlitzer Organ Co., of New York, was attached this morning in the sum of $1000 in an action of contract brought by Julius Cahn of New York, former proprietor of the Opera House.

Mr. Cahn, who is represented by A. S. Goldman, Esq., of this city, is suing to recover an alleged commission for the sale of the said organ to Lowe & Green, former lessees of the Opera House. He claims he was to receive a commission of five per cent as agent for the Weurlitzer Organ Co. in the sale of the said organ to Lowe & Green, the said commission amounting to $500. The attachment was made this morning and the papers were filed with the city clerk this noon.

At the close of this case an action of contract went to trial. This was the case of Derby & Co. of Lowell vs. Julius Cahn of New York. In this case the plaintiffs brought suit to recover the sum of $500 for wiring the Lowell Opera House, of which the defendant is a former proprietor. Qua, Howard & Rogers appear for the plaintiffs and A. S. Goldman for the defendant.

LATE WAR NEWS

and Rumania. Rumors are rife that Rumania is mobilizing an army of 1,000,000 men which is said to be in splendid condition for active service.

The German press is showing some indications of anxiety over this situation, and the Frankfurt Zeitung has called for concessions to prevent Rumanian intervention. Vienna has been informed that Germany, pouring out blood and treasure in the struggle, must be listened to and that Austria-Hungary must be prepared to make certain sacrifices to meet the Rumanian demands.

It is significant, in the opinion of observers, that three of the opposition leaders in the Hungarian parliament have demanded and been granted a conference with Emperor Francis Joseph for the statement of opinions which cannot be uttered in parliament itself.

The Russians are reported as being heavily reinforced along the Rumanian front, but the official accounts on operations at this point continue to be contradictory; the only fact emerging clearly is that no decisive result yet has been gained by either side.

In the western arena of hostilities nothing of importance has been recorded.

FRENCH WAR OFFICE REPORTS

CAPTURE OF GERMANS NORTH OF ARRAS

PARIS, June 2, 2.35 p. m.—The French war office this afternoon gave out an official report on the progress of hostilities reading as follows:

"In the sector to the north of Arras the fighting continued last night in the labyrinth to the southeast of Neuville, we occupied several trenches and made further prisoners. The total number of prisoners made at this point since Monday night is over 450. At Neuville itself we took possession of a group of houses, where we maintained ourselves in spite of several counterattacks.

"In the other parts of this sector, particularly at Lorette there was artillery fighting yesterday.

"Along the remainder of the front there is nothing to report with the exception of two bombardments of Rheims and particularly of the cathedral in that city."

BELGIAN ARMY HOLDS ROADS—PREVENT GERMANS FROM ADVANCING

HAVER, France, June 2, 5.10 a. m.—The following official statement was issued last night regarding the operations of the Belgian army:

"A fierce artillery duel marked the day of May 31 along the Belgian front. Belgian guns of all calibers massed their fire, mowing up the enemy's trenches and accessory defenses at a number of points.

"All the roads beyond the German front are commanded by the Belgian's fire making it very difficult for the enemy to bring up fresh supplies. The first line of Belgian troops, by a continuous fire, prevented troops from advancing."

WARNING TO MEXICO

and vigorous policy to restore peace below the Rio Grande.

Everywhere it was interpreted as a warning that the patience of the United States is exhausted. What steps the president is prepared to take if his warning goes unheeded is not disclosed in the statement. In high official quarters, nevertheless, no doubt existed that he is prepared to proceed.

Revolution for Two Years

"For more than two years revolutionary conditions have existed in Mexico. The purpose of the revolution was to rid Mexico of men who ignored the constitution of the republic and used their power in contempt of the rights of its people and with these purposes the people of the United States instinctively and generously sympathized. But the leaders of the revolution, in the very hour of their success, have discarded and turned their arms against one another.

"All professing the same objects, they are, nevertheless, unable or unwilling to co-operate. A central authority at Mexico City is no sooner set up than it is undermined and its authority denied by those who were expected to support it.

"Mexico is apparently no nearer a solution of her tragical troubles than she was when the revolution was first kindled. And she has been swept by civil war as if by fire. Her crops are destroyed, her fields lie unseeded, her work cattle are concentrated in the hands of the armed factions, her people flee to the mountains to escape being drawn into unavailing bloodshed and no man seems to see or lead the way to peace and settled order. There is no proper protection either for her own citizens, or for the citizens of other nations, resident at work within her territory. Mexico is starving and without a government.

UNITED STATES WANTS NOTHING

"In these circumstances, the people and government of the United States cannot stand indifferently by and do nothing to serve their neighbor. They want nothing for themselves in Mexico, except that all do they desire to settle her affairs for her or claim any right to do so. But neither do they wish to see utter ruin come upon her and they deem it their duty as friends and neighbors to lend any aid they properly can to any instrumentality which promises to be effective in bringing about a settlement which will embody the real objects of the revolution—constitutional government and the rights of the people. Patriotic Mexicans are sick at heart and cry out for peace and for every self-sacrifice that may be necessary to procure it. Their people cry out for food and will presently hate as much as they fear every man, their country or their government, who stands between them and their daily bread.

Calls for Prompt Action

"It is time, therefore, that the government of the United States should frankly state the policy which in these extraordinary circumstances it becomes its duty to adopt. It must presently do what it has not hitherto done or felt at liberty to do, lend its active moral support to some man or group of men, if such may be found, who can rally the suffering people of Mexico to their support, in an effort to secure, if they cannot quite, the warring factions of the country, return to the constitution of the republic, so long in abeyance, and set up a government at Mexico City, which the great powers of the world can recognize and deal with a government with whom the program of the revolution will be a business and not mere-

LETTERS BY WASHINGTON

INJUNCTION AGAINST SALE AT AUCTION OF HISTORICAL DOCUMENTS

PHILADELPHIA, June 2.—A preliminary injunction was issued by the Philadelphia common pleas court today against the sale at auction here of certain historical documents claimed to be the property of the state of New Hampshire. The collection includes letters written by George Washington as commander of the Continental army and as president, numerous writings from other American generals in the revolution and signers of the Declaration of Independence, and resolutions of congress signed by Charles Thomson.

The collection is in the custody of Frank C. Moore, Brooklyn, N. Y., and Mary M. Wesson, Montclair, N. J., administrators of the estate of Jacob Moore, who had inherited the papers from his father, Jacob Moore of New Hampshire. It is claimed the collection mysteriously disappeared from the archives of that state.

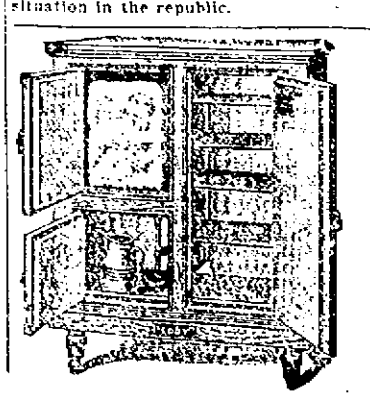

The petition filed today suggests that the elder Moore may possibly have come into possession of the papers through his partner, John Farmer, who under the authority of a resolution of the New Hampshire legislature

VILLA'S ENVOY PLEASED

NEW YORK, June 2.—Gen. Villa's representative in New York City, Francisco Urigui, said he was much gratified by President Wilson's new policy towards Mexico.

"That is fine," Senator Urigui said after reading the president's pronouncement to the Mexican leaders. "That is just what we expected from President Wilson. To be perfectly frank, I might say that we—the Villa people—have tried, on more than one occasion, to do just what Pres. Wilson has suggested. Mr. Carranza, however, is a very hard-headed man."

The military mastery of Mexico, Senator Urigui said, would depend much upon a great battle which is now being waged around Leon, northwest of Mexico City. This battle between the Carranza and Villa troops, he said, had been in progress for eight days. More men than had fought in any other battle in Mexico's recent troubles were taking part, he said, and to the victor would probably go the control of the situation in the republic.

1837 was engaged to arrange and bind historical documents in the state's archives.

The collection consists of 800 papers bound in ten volumes. Counsel for the Moore estate declared that ownership is legally vested in his client.

LOWELL LOST ANOTHER

Manchester Wins Game 5 to 2 in Spite of Matty Zieser's Gilt Edge Box Work

Lowell lost another game at Spaulding Park yesterday when two fly balls went for hits in the eighth inning and a couple of two legitimate singles. The final score was 5-2.

Matty Zieser pitched wonderful ball, a semblance of a hit being made off his delivery for seven innings. In the eighth Swayne was pulled over to right center and Briggs, who has a tendency to hit into right, sent up a pop fly just out of the right fielder's reach. With three men on Barrows misjudged Swayne's long drive to center and two runs resulted. A single by Torphy then allowed two more tallies to cross the scoring platter and a game which should have been bagged by the locals was lost.

Several sensational fielding stunts were pulled off during the contest. McMahon, Myers, Torphy and Stimpson provided the features. The game in detail:

USE CARE IN SPRAYING

SPRAYED BLOSSOMS POISON BEES AND CAUSE THEM TO DIE ON FALL IN THEIR WORK

State Forester F. W. Rane has addressed a communication to Supt. John G. Gordon, chief of the local moth extermination department, to exercise great care in spraying. The warning is due to the vicious protests against the spraying of fruit trees when they are in bloom. It has been ascertained that when the fluid is sprayed on blossoms which are frequented by bees the bees are affected and the protests against such spraying are invariably lodged by owners of bees.

HONOR GEN. LEE

Confederate Veterans

Paid Tribute to Leader at Convention

RICHMOND, Va., June 2.—This was Lee day at the commencement of United Confederate Veterans here. Several thousand veterans, assembled in convention hall, cheered for many minutes Miss Anne Carter Lee, granddaughter of Gen. Robert E. Lee, when she appeared on the platform. The incident culminated in repeated "rebel yells" when Gen. Lee was pronounced by Gen. Julian S. Carr of North Carolina "the world's greatest hero."

"Not so long ago," said Gen. Carr, "there were many at the north who deemed us traitors and southern traitors as rebels by some of our loyal compatriots. To the latter epithet the south has no very particular objections. During the Christian era the three grandest names in political history are Alfred the Great, William the Silent and George Washington. Technically the first of this illustrious trio was a rebel. Actually and legally the last two men rebels and the last named, greatest and grandest of the lot, was a southerner and a slave holder."

The convention officially awarded credit for designing the Stars and Bars to Maj. Orion Randolph Smith of Louisville, N. C.

Later today the convention will elect officers.

At the convention of the United Sons of Confederate Veterans, William Jennings Brandon of Little Rock, Ark., was elected commander to succeed Semour Stewart of St. Louis.

DIAMOND DAZZLES

Barrows made a terrible mistake in pulling Swayne to right center with Briggs at the bat. Any kind of a poke to right was bound to fall safe and the Manchester left fielder immediately dumped the ball in the uncovered territory.

Barrows would do better to allow Swayne and Stimpson to tell him what to do in the outfield on the various batters in this circuit than to attempt to place the outfield himself.

Matty Zieser once more went down to defeat after pitching a great game of ball. True, he was wild at times, but that must be expected. It is quite likely to suppose that had Swayne been playing his usual position in right and been under Briggs' eye the result would have been far different.

Stimpson was under several hard chances in left center that seemed to be out of his reach. Swayne showed more speed in the outer gardens yesterday than any outfielder who has appeared at Spaulding park in a long time with the possible exception of Burns of Portland.

Those two stops of McMahon's at third were sensational. Billy is playing better ball than at any time this season and his bat is waving to good effect and at the right time.

Jeff McCleskey has a pair of very sore hands. The skin is cracked and broken on his palms and it will be a question of days before he can do himself justice.

Walter Ahearn, the new catcher, obtained from Manager McGeehan of the New London club, is a big fellow in the New England league. Ahearn bears a splendid reputation as a backstop and was easily the star of his department in the Eastern association last year.

McGeehan, Manchester's new second sacker, is a great little fellow. He is leading the batting order for Jack Kieran and opposing pitchers do not like to see him step to the plate. Twice yesterday he walked and was hit by a pitched ball on another occasion. McGeehan stole the only swiped depot of the game.

AN EVASIVE REPLY

In his famous note to Germany President Wilson in unmistakable terms asked that Germany should acknowledge the injustice of the sinking of the Lusitania, should make reparation so far as possible for the American lives lost and should give a guarantee that such warfare on neutrals should cease. It was intimated plainly that Germany could not respect the rules of international law while engaged in a submarine warfare against merchant ships, and it was intimated still more plainly that the American government stood ready to back up its demands by immediate acts.

After waiting until further delay would have aroused strong animosity in this country, Germany has sent an answer that ignores every main point in President Wilson's note, asserts Germany's right to sink the Lusitania, quotes American law to justify the outrage, expresses little or no regret and promises no cessation of submarine activity. By some, the German note is regarded as a statement of facts as Germany sees them; by others it is regarded as a challenge—though this interpretation is for America to make officially or not, as its leaders see fit.

It is questionable if the German government really believes as it pretends to believe in this answer. It states that the Lusitania was an auxiliary British cruiser, was armed with cannons carried below deck, carried Canadian troops and ammunition and used Americans merely as a cloak to cover war movements. All of these charges have been disproved beyond question. Had she been an auxiliary cruiser, the proper course would have been for Germany to call for her internment in our port. Had she carried guns, our government officials would have known and forbidden her engaging in the American passenger service. There is no evidence to support the claim that she carried Canadian troops, and the ammunition was of the variety carried by passenger vessels at all times. Even admitting that the charges were true, it would not justify the attack on neutrals, but aside from that, Germany's case is weak indeed.

The audience granted to Ambassador Bernstorff by President Wilson today may serve to give each government a clearer insight into position held by the other, but if there is to be any recession, it must be by Germany. From the first, America has had nothing to debate, and the attempt of the German government to temporize will fail, for lack of a response in kind. It would be to the advantage of Germany to parley and exchange notes until the case lost all its original complexion, but it is certain that, in this, President Wilson will maintain the stand he took for right and nationality after the loss of the Lusitania. He is fighting for American principle directly but for humanity indirectly.

It is the general opinion in this country that Germany does not look upon the situation as serious. It may need the note which President Wilson is expected to send immediately to awake it from its dream of American passivity. If President Wilson reiterates his position and again makes his demands in clear and forceful language, Germany must know what the consequences of its foolish diplomacy must be. This country hopes that we may avoid trouble with any of the belligerents, but all Americans stand firmly with the president whatever course he may pursue. The refusal of Germany to accede to our request will almost certainly be followed by the severing of diplomatic relations, and the rest is veiled darkly in the future, although it plainly involves the possibility of war.

PRISON PIFFLE

Many well disposed persons with the best intentions in the world are letting sentiment run away with their common-sense in all relating to prisons and prison reform. Only a few days ago, news items from Sing Sing related how an experiment at home rule in that institution had resulted in the formation of two social cliques, the "silk stockings" and the "rough necks," and how strong animosity had sprung out between them to the damage of discipline. In this state there has been persistent criticism at taxity in granting pardons indiscriminately, and at agitations that would better the lot of the criminal as a class, without considering the aim of prisons as institutions or weighing the possible results of ridiculous reform schemes on the community.

A news item from Worcester yesterday is of particular interest as indicating the extremes to which some persons would carry their desire for "prison reform." The promoter of a society horse show in a wealthy Worcester suburb had invited the 222 inmates of the Worcester county jail, and all preparation had been made to entertain them in royal style, but the sheriff, Albert F. Richardson, refused permission at the last moment, declaring that it did not appear to be his duty to foster such an outing. The guests at the jail are said to be quite indignant, particularly as the invitation was given at a dinner which the promoter of the horse show held at the jail in February.

There may have been no attempt at self-exploitation in the mistaken kindness of the Worcester individual, but it is a matter for congratulation that his wish was not carried out. True, were prisoners permitted to go to horse shows and theatres, prisons would be more attractive, but the state is not over anxious to have many prisoners to look after, and no one is invited to go to jail. Look at it as you will, such institutions are places of punishment for crime, and are neither vacation resorts nor experimental stations. Treatment of all prisoners should be humane and remedial, but if some reformers had their way they would make a prison term as good as a Florida sojourn or a state junket to the Panama-Pacific exposition.

GULFIGHT CASE

There is probably more than a mere coincidence in the coming of the official German explanation of the sinking of the American steamer Gulfight on the heels of the answer to President Wilson's note on the sinking of the Lusitania. For the first time in any important matter of controversy the German government admits that a mistake was made, and establishes the precedent already sanctioned by international law, viz: that neutral vessels still have rights that no belligerent may abuse.

It is the contention of the German government that the Gulfight was taken for a British vessel because of her being conveyed by two boats resembling travelers, one of which carried wireless apparatus. This showed a pretty good faculty of observation on the part of the commander of the submarine who says in the next breath that he did not notice the American flag on the stern until after he had given the order to fire. Having seen his error so soon—according to his own admission—it is strange that the official explanation has been delayed until more weighty problems were under discussion.

Though there is little of a satisfactory nature in this German admission of responsibility, it shows a remarkable change of front. Only a short time ago Germany modified its first policies against shipping in general by stating that it would not deliberately injure neutral shipping and would make amends for any damage that might inadvertently be done. Proof of the reliability of this is now afforded in the case of the Gulfight. Still, it does not go far enough. If it be wrong for Germany to sink an American ship, it is a wrong that expressions of regret and financial reparation will not adequately cover. It is for Germany to make sure first that the flag at the stern or elsewhere is not a British flag. If it is an American flag, used legitimately, Germany must realize the dangerous consequences of some phases of her submarine warfare.

ON STREET EXTENSIONS
The only possible ground on which one may justify the extension of Dunmer street is on the ground of civic beauty; for there is certainly no demand for it among the public and it cannot be classed as a public necessity. Admitting that the extension would improve the appearance of the region near city hall, would it improve it $60,000 worth? And having begun to improve the appearance of the city by extending an unimportant street, would it be consistent for our officials to stop there? Are there not other streets and spots in all parts of the city that call just as urgently for the expenditure of public funds?

The extension of Dunmer street would do away with a small patch of ramshackle buildings adjacent to city hall, but it would leave many more just as undesirable. City hall is surrounded with poor types of buildings, and if we had money to spare we could spend quite a little in that region with advantage. Sixty thousand dollars is a great deal of money, however, and it would give us some things that we need most imperatively, but as a fund for property improvement it would not be a drop in the ocean. When, then, should our officials countenance such a vast expenditure for ineffectual and incomplete street improvement?

There is undesirable property in Merrimack square, but this is no excuse for running a new street from Merrimack to Paige street. There are several unlovely spots on Merrimack street, but it would not be considered an excuse for any further street extension. We have unsightly properties near our postoffice, our depot, our court house, all of our public buildings. Is it the purpose of the city council to improve all of these places? If not, why not? Why should one of the least important be signalled out at a proposed expenditure of $20,000 while Lowell is in absolute need of so many more necessary things?

DAY WELL OBSERVED

The stirring events through which the nation is passing at the present time gave more than the usual significance to local observance of Memorial day; the parade, prayers at cemeteries, decorations of graves, sermons, music and military salutes seemed to mean more than for years past, but withal there was more solemnity and seriousness in the public attitude. The weather was delightful, the heat being tempered with soft, cool breezes, and the various events were calculated to stir up local pride and patriotism as well as give the necessary rest and recreation.

It was noted with sorrow that the ranks of the veterans are thinning more and more and that those who remain are wearing the marks of advanced age. Still, they will be the "boys" in blue while any are left as a link with the past, and there will be more inspiration in their faltering steps than in bugles and drums. It seems but a few years since the Spanish-American war, but even these later veterans wear the marks of vanishing youth. Should the call for volunteers go out tomorrow, it would be the young who would flock most ardently, but they would be young men stirred by the examples of those gone before.

The various athletic events, too,

IN SUCH PAIN WOMAN CRIED

Suffered Everything Until Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Florence, So. Dakota.—"I used to be very sick every month with bearing down pains and backache, and had headache a good deal of the time and very little appetite. The pains were so bad that I used to sit right down on the floor and cry, because it hurt me, so I could not do any work at those times. An old woman advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I got a bottle. I felt better the next month so I took three more bottles of it and got well so I could work all the time. I hope every woman who suffers like I did will try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. P. W. LANSING, Box 8, Allen, Wash.

Why will women continue to suffer day in and day out of drag out a sickly, half-hearted existence, missing three-fourths of the joy of living, when they can find health in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?

For thirty years it has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has restored the health of thousands of women who have been troubled with such ailments as displacements, inflammation, ulceration, tumors, irregularities, etc.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotics or harmful drugs, and today holds the record of being the most successful remedy for women's ills known.

were a worthy part of the day's observance. The ball game, the Bunting club events, the horse races all had their following, stirring up enthusiasm and healthy interest in minds that had a brief respite from labor that they might ponder on the American past. It was a memorable day, well observed and thoroughly enjoyed by all our people.

A SWEEPING CHARGE

Chairman Walsh of the industrial relations commission which for some time past has been probing the great strike in Colorado in an effort to fix the responsibility for the same has come out in a bitter arraignment of the Rockefeller family, especially John D. Jr., as the cause of the trouble. The public opinion of the country has long ago decided that the great strike was due to a lack of mutual sympathy on the part of the mine owners and employees, and though Mr. Rockefeller may have been guilty to some extent, few will believe that the responsibility is his and his only. Mr. Rockefeller may have represented the untending capitalist, but Colorado has also suffered from the labor and social agitator in his worst form, and the workers were of the type to be inflamed by dangerous and revolutionary doctrines. Now that the wound is healing, the literary invectives of Chairman Walsh will serve anything but a good purpose. The impassioned chairman does not love the gentleman he accuses; he demonstrated that strikingly during the hearings before the commission. It is quite probable that in all sincerity his views have been colored by the glasses of personal and political prejudice that he wore while probing a situation on which he now speaks with so much passion.

Within a few days Lowell has seen an evening parade and a daylight parade. On the basis of beauty or picturesqueness, most will give the palm to the moonlight or electric light observance. The hush of evening, the shadows here and there, the effects of illumination and red fire, and the many possibilities of an evening parade give it a character that one looks for in vain through the day. It is to be hoped that our great White Way observance will be but the first of a series.

EVERY DAY ETIQUETTE

"Do you think it would be correct for me to wear a linen colored dress out on the porch this morning?" asked the little widow who had been in mourning only a few months. "You should not wear a linen colored dress. You may, however, wear all white during the warm days of summer. Not until two years have passed should you wear colors," answered her mother.

"Kindly advise me what is the proper way to address an announcement that is sent to the father, mother and family," asked Alice over the phone one morning. "It is not proper to make a single announcement serve for an entire household. One invitation should be sent to 'Mrs. and Mr. Smith' another to the 'Messrs. Smith,' answered her aunt.

"Should a girl write a note of thanks to her escort for flowers which he has sent her to wear to a party or will verbal thanks be sufficient, and does a man go first when entering a theatre or church?" asked Gladys. "Thank your escort for the flowers in person, that will be sufficient. A man enters any public place first to open the heavy doors and make way for his companion," answered her governess.

CEMETERY COMMISSION

MEMBERS OF NEW COMMISSION ARE "FEARED" OVER CRITICISM EMANATING AT CITY HALL

The cemetery commission will meet Friday evening and they do say that certain ones at city hall are to be taken to task for saying things about the commission. At a previous meeting the commission voted to buy settlers for the Edison cemetery and the commission also voted to ask the city solicitor for an opinion relative to its authority in connection with the purchase of material and supplies. The day after the meeting, and before he had heard that he was going to be called upon for an opinion, City Solicitor Hennessy talked with newspaper representatives and told them that any material or supplies for the cemetery would have to be purchased through the purchasing agent's office. Purchasing Agent Foy, too, stated that all supplies would have to be purchased through his office and that he would refuse to approve the bill for the settlers which the cemetery commission voted to buy. Now the cemetery commission, or certain members thereof, take the stand that the city solicitor and the purchasing agent were speaking out of their turn and that they were not exercising the usual or proper courtesy to the new commission. In criticizing it before the city solicitor's opinion, asked for by the commission, had been received, Mr. Simon B. Harris allows that he will teach "em a little parliamentary etiquette at city hall.

SENT TO STATE PRISON

JOSEPH BAZINET, GIVEN TERM OF NOT LESS THAN FOUR YEARS—CONVICTED OF EMBEZZLING

WORCESTER, June 2.—Joseph Bazinet, ex-treasurer of the Millbury St. Jean Baptiste Society, was sentenced in superior court by Judge Sanderson yesterday to serve not less than four nor more than six years in state prison. He was convicted on indictments charging him with larcenies and forgeries by which he embezzled $2700 of the society's funds. While the indictments charged him only with that amount, there was testimony that he wiped out all but less than $100 of a fund of more than $4000 that the society had in reserve. His stealings, it is claimed, covered most of the 12 years that he was treasurer.

Joseph Lavinsky of Worcester, convicted of misconduct, was sentenced to not less than five nor more than ten years in state prison. IN MILADY'S BOUDOIR

BY GWEN BEARS

PEACEFUL BEAUTY OF MIDDLE AGE

As long as the middle aged woman feels young she will seem young and she will feel young only as long as she can live in the present and future and not in the past. In dress she must not repeat the mistake of former days and compete for the adornment triumphs in which the young have the advantage. Friendship, intellectual and social triumphs, useful work and absorbing hobbies are the opportunities before the middle aged woman. She should determine to be self sufficient, for the nearer she approaches a serene independence of the favors of others the happier she will be and the pleasanter companion she will make. She should be ready to give but not too eager to receive, since no tragedy is sadder than that of the mother whose desire for the children who have gone away, cuts like a sword into her soul, or of the single woman because love has passed her by. The woman of old times who lived by her affections often suffered cruelly, but what broke her heart generally causes the modern woman to harden hers, as she is beginning to have interests of her own which do not wholly forsake her even in circumstances of distressing loneliness and disappointment. She finds so much to do and to see, for there has never been an era like the present one, so rich in opportunities for useful work, for traveling and for culture.

'HUGGER' CALLED

Says He Often Held Woman Head of Hos- pital in His Lap

HAVERHILL, June 2.—An ineffectual attempt to close the public hearing of evidence on charges against Alice C. Marshall, superintendent of the tuberculosis hospital, was made yesterday afternoon when Judge John J. Ryan and Attorney Peters called into conference Mayor Bartlett, the municipal council and the board of administration of the hospital. That there might be no criticism that the session was an executive one the newspaper men were invited to be present. Members of the municipal council decided that a full hearing of the evidence would be necessary before they could reach any conclusions, and the hearings will be continued next Friday morning.

The afternoon session was largely attended, hundreds being turned away because of the lack of accommodations in the double council chamber and the corridors. Several times Mayor Bartlett was required to call counsel to order and also to direct the policemen to suppress disturbances in the audience.

Frank Freeman, aged 19, of Boston, who has been mentioned by all previous witnesses as "the hugger," was on the witness stand for an hour and a half. He caused laughter by his ready admissions that he had hugged the superintendent, the nurses and the cook, had violated rules and escaped punishment, had held the superintendent on his lap many times and had been given money by her and many other attaches at the hospital.

Freeman was discharged from the hospital and went to Boston, but didn't want to take treatment at the institution designated by the Boston health officials and he returned to this city and later went to Maine.

Miss Ethel A. Crombie of the Lawrence Municipal hospital was under cross-examination by Judge Ryan the first part of the afternoon and she didn't change her direct testimony. She corroborated the other nurses in that beer and whisky had been served at the hospital. She admitted she drank some of the beer, but denied that young Freeman ever hugged her.

ton today to represent the mayor at the hearing before the public service commission on the extension of the street railway tracks in Varnum avenue. The municipal council has already gone on record as in favor of the extension and the city solicitor went to Boston today for the purpose of advocating it. A number of Varnum avenue residents attended the hearing and urged the extension.

Commissioner Putnam went to Boston with the city solicitor and this evening Mr. Putnam will join the mayor and Commissioner Morse in Springfield. The only members of the city council at city hall today were Commissioners Carmichael and Duncan. The latter talked high school with a big H and a big S. "Now that the governor has signed the bill to allow the city to borrow $700,000 outside the debt limit," said Mr. Duncan, "I believe that we should get down to business. There is no need to dilly-dally any longer. I believe we should start right in and build the school as quickly as possible. I intend to urge immediate action in the matter."

IN POLICE COURT

For violating the Lord's day by keeping open his barber shop for one hour for the purpose of cutting and curling hair, Nervous Boyajian was brought before Judge Enright in the local court today and entered a plea of guilty. His attorney, William A. Hogan, explained the matter to the court. He said that last Saturday night when the closing hour arrived, 12 o'clock, Boyajian had six customers in his shop and rather than close them he and an assistant proceeded to shave them. At this time, however, police officers entered the shop and found two patrons in the chairs. After impressing upon the defendant's mind the fact that he must stop work at 12 o'clock Saturday nights, the case was placed on file. It was the first complaint ever made against Boyajian.

Case of Tipping

Armand Lacombe played a mean trick on Henry Smith of 160 Newmarket street a week ago Monday night and as a result he was in court today charged with the larceny of $2 from the same gentleman. He pleaded guilty.

It seems that Lacombe is employed by a contractor who had a gang of men doing some work about Mr. Smith's property. When the men completed their work, Mr. Smith gave each one 50 cents as a tip for faithful work. The defendant did not happen to be paid out and so the next time he met Mr. Smith on the street, he informed him that he had been overlooked when the tips were passed out. In order to be fair to all, Mr. Smith told Armand that he would give him a half dollar also, but the smallest bill he had was a two-spot. The defendant willingly agreed to go to a nearby store and have the bill changed and he departed with the money.

The complainant told the court that he had no desire to press the case, but thought Lacombe played a somewhat contemptuous trick on him. The case was placed on file and the defendant gave Mr. Smith back $1.50 of his money.

Stephen C. Brennan was sentenced to four months in the house of correction after pleading guilty of failing to support his five minor children. Mrs. Brennan said that her husband besides neglecting to support his children threatened to harm her and yesterday she stayed out all afternoon rather than going into the house and meeting him. He was taken from the sentence and was held in $200 surety for the superior court.

Larceny Case

Charged with the larceny of an overcoat from Eugene Desrosiers and a razor from Ernest St. Jean, Michael Collins was arraigned and pleaded guilty. Desrosiers and St. Jean reside in Manchester and are doing some work for the railroad in and around this city. They sleep and keep their belongings in a car on Western avenue and Collins, a former railroad employee was aware of this. Monday night while under the influence of liquor, according to his own testimony, Collins entered the freight car and stole the coat and razor. Collins said he works for a laundry company and expressed a desire to pay a fine. Judge Enright ordered him to contribute $15 toward the county funds within the next month.

John J. Gougeon was arrested on a capias for failing to support his wife.

He claimed in court today that he had lost his position and had gone into the mercantile business, and would not have any money until the next week. The case was continued for one week and Gougeon was ordered to pay his wife six dollars each week, hereafter.

The case of Leo Montminy, charged with the larceny of two watches and one ring from George Antonis, a jeweler at 433 Merrimack street, was called on continuance today. Montminy pleaded not guilty.

Mr. Antonis said that the defendant went to him and asked for work as a clock repairer, saying that he had recently come here from Montreal. It was put to work and after a short time, two watches and a ring were missed. Montminy admitted taking one watch but said he knew nothing about the other mentioned in the complaint. The ring he said he dropped on the floor of the store and could not find it. The case was again continued for one day for further consideration.

George Kavours pleaded not guilty to assaulting Katrina Georgiana.

The complainant is under medical care, the case was continued for one week, defendant being held in $300 bonds.

John Nagad was found guilty of neglecting to support his wife and was given a suspended sentence of four months in the house of correction. Mrs. Nagad said she did not care for any help from him but wanted to be free of his annoyance.

The case of Louis Dubois, charged with illegally keeping liquor was again continued. Laverie George Toye represented the defend-

ACTIVE AT THE OPENING

MARKET LATER LAPPED INTO

DULLNESS—THE CLOSING WAS

STRONG

NEW YORK, June 2.—Greater firmness and breadth marked today's dealings on the stock exchange, but war shares were again the dominant features. Advances of 1 to 4 points were recorded by General Electric, Bethlehem Steel, Westinghouse and Crucible

Steel, while allied issues rose a point or two and Federal Mining 4 1/2-2.

U. S. Steel was the only speculative leader to gain as much as a point.

Others in that group rising only fractions. Among the few declines of the first half hour were New Haven and

New York Air Brake which fell one and two points respectively.

Wall street was disposed to place a favorable interpretation on the conference to be held later in the day between the president and the German ambassador. This was reflected in a widening of the area of gains, which later embraced the more representative shares. Railway issues registered advanced 1 to 3 points and some of the special industrials increased their early advantage. Trading in the first hour was almost double that of the corresponding period of yesterday, but toward mid-day dealings dwindled perceptibly though without impairment of quoted values. Bonds were firm.

Business came to a complete standstill during the mid-session. Bethlehem

Steel reacted four points, and Missouri

Pacific gained a point on announcement that the not extension plan had become operative. Elsewhere changes were trivial.

Trading became more perfunctory in the later session, prices showing fractional recessions from their best. The closing was strong.

LOWELL MASS. WEDNESDAY JUNE 2 1915

PRICE ONE CENT

BROADWAY CLUB BANQUET

Mayor Murphy, Ex-Mayor Casey and Jeremiah O'Sullivan, Esq., Speakers—Fine Entertainment

With a dinner fit for the kings, eloquent and instructive addresses, excellent instrumental and vocal selections and a spirit of hospitality and cordiality that could not be surpassed, the banquet of the Broadway Social and Athletic club held in their well appointed rooms in upper Broadway last evening proved to be one of the most successful affairs of its kind ever held in this city.

Though in existence but a few months, the Broadway Social and Athletic club has made rapid progress and now occupies a conspicuous place among Lowell's most noted organizations. It has conducted several very successful parties but never before has such an enjoyable time been held in the rooms as that conducted there last evening.

From the first number on the program till the final one it was one continuous round of pleasure and those fortunate enough to be included as guests will long remember the banquet given by the Broadway.

The club rooms were beautifully decorated for the occasion. On the front of the building streamers of red, white and blue bunting were artistically suspended while a large sign with the inscription "welcome" was conspicuously displayed. The interior decorations included streamers of the national colors and potted plants and ferns arranged advantageously around the speakers' platform.

The program was well diversified and among the speakers were Mayor Dennis J. Murphy, Hon. James B. Casey, Jeremiah O'Sullivan, Esq., President Patrick McCann, Timothy O'Sullivan, chairman of the banquet committee, and Rep. Dennis A. Murphy and William H. Sullivan.

Prior to opening the festivities the members and guests assembled in the rooms above the club and at 5.30 o'clock lines were formed and all marched to the club rooms where an appetizing turkey supper was served by Caterer Harvey. Minor's orchestra furnished music during the supper and also played for the singers.

The post prandial exercises opened with remarks by Chairman O'Sullivan, who thanked all present for their assistance in the past and wished all an enjoyable evening. He then introduced as toastmaster of the evening, Rep. Dennis A. Murphy.

Rep. Murphy spoke in better form and he performed the arduous duties in a most entertaining and clever manner. President McCann was next called upon and delivered the address of welcome. He also gave a brief sketch of the club, stating that it was formed on Nov. 1914, with but a handful of members and that at the present time there are 123 members in good standing.

He emphasized the fact that the Broadway club is not a political organization; its object being to provide athletics and social entertainment for the members. He told of the great response after the first meeting was held and added that members are continuously coming in. He spoke of the success of the past and told of the buying of a summer camp so that the members and their friends might enjoy outdoor sports during the warmer weather. Pres. McCann congratulated the banquet committee for arranging such an excellent program and also expressed his gratitude to the speakers of the evening.

Mayor Murphy

James Dowling then sang "When It's Moonlight in Mayo," and he was obliged to respond to an encore. Mayor Murphy was next introduced. He told of the pleasure it gave him to be present at the first banquet of the club and congratulated the organization for its unprecedented progress. He then gave an instructive address on "Opportunity." He told of the opportunities afforded the young men right here in the city of Lowell and urged his listeners to take advantage of the chances offered. He mentioned the Lowell Textile school, and the industrial school, and told of the advantages obtained by a course at either institution. He said that the time has passed when ability is discriminated against and that the industrial heads now consider efficiency and not nationality. "Great results follow a technical education and now that you have the chance before you grasp it and do not let the good places in our mills and factories go to residents of Lawrence, Methuen, Woburn and other places."

Assessor O'Sullivan

Inspector of Lands and Buildings Francis A. Connor sang by request "Ireland, I Love You," and he was warmly greeted. For an encore he gave "An Irish Lullaby." Assessor Jeremiah O'Sullivan told of the advantages obtained by membership in such an organization as the Broadway club. The principles are and should be friendship, fidelity and community interest. "By friendship I mean a binding chain of friendship for each other and this leads to the strongest link, fidelity to all. By displaying community interest you can accomplish much for an organization can be a great power in any city. You can bring about many needed improvements in this vicinity, just as others have succeeded in securing improvements. There is no better way than by organization, for in union there is strength.

Mr. O'Sullivan told of the improvements in other parts of the city, such as the loan of $500,000 for a new high school and $50,000 for a new Pawtucket bridge.

These were made possible by the community interest manifested by the people in Belvidere and Pawtucketville. Now, take the condition of Adams street. The land there is assessed for 10 cents a foot and the surrounding area is in a deplorable condition. Well, as a suggestion, suppose you members decided to seek an improvement there. With this representative organization behind you, nothing but success would result and the condition would be speedily remedied and the club as well as all those in the vicinity would benefit as a result.

In closing the speaker said that the celebration bore a double significance, inasmuch as June was also the birth month of the American flag. He defined the flag and told of what it stood for, how it stood for the boys at Manila bay, at Santiago and only recently at Vera Cruz and concluded by saying "may it always be the flag of the states and territories of our country."

Walter Clough then gave in his own inimitable manner "Chinatown." He made a great hit and was forced to respond to no less than five encores.

Hon. James B. Casey

Hon. James B. Casey, the principal speaker of the evening was then called. He gave a stirring address on American citizenship.

In opening his address he paid a touching tribute to the veterans, who on Memorial day paraded our streets and marched to the cemeteries to honor their departed brothers. The speaker also urged upon all the necessity of loyalty to President Wilson in these troublesome days. During the course of Mr. Casey's address he said:

It is well said that "despair of humanity would be to despair of humanity," and the full force of that statement was never more apparent than in these troublesome days. Yes, indeed, the hopes of humanity are centered in America, and under the wise guidance of our noble president, America is prepared to keep alive the principles of humanity as the guiding forces of civilization.

The preservation of our American heritage is our present day obligation. Indifference, and weakness in ourselves toward our duties and responsibilities may bring ruin to our national life. Nations proud and grand in the past have succumbed when their people lost all sense of national honor, and failed to maintain the dignity of the state. We are weak and in grave danger, when we proclaim ourselves too powerful and great to listen to the common dictates of humanity, and the commandments of God.

It is well said that American citizenship means equality, but there is not an equality on the part of many citizens in the discharge of their obligations to the state. Some citizens give far more than others. Some men there are, in every community who enjoy the freedom of our institutions and yet live on year after year and fail to swear allegiance to the nation that has offered them opportunity for advancement in life. Some men there are, who are too lazy and indifferent to affairs of state, to take even a passing interest in problems of civic life.

Real citizenship may be displayed only by a real Christian man. The privilege of depositing a ballot at the polling precinct, election day, does not make a man a real citizen. It is the motives and reasons that cause him to vote as he does that counts. And how far these motives and reasons are based upon the purest and best ideals of citizenship. The real test is how well a man can conduct himself in his relations with his fellow man in every day affairs of life.

Our weakness as a nation may only result, when our citizens become indifferent and careless in the exercise of citizenship. When citizens become arrayed against one another on matters that have no place in our national life. The most despicable character in American life is the man who is unable, narrow minded bigot, who under the guise of patriotic inspiration, develops issues and disseminates untruths that tend to arouse enmity towards loyal citizens, yet how futile and unavailing are such efforts, when we consider the broad and liberal principles of our institutions.

A man's citizenship in this republic is a priceless inheritance. It stamps him with the dignity of manhood. It clothes him in the garb of civic purity and proclaims him to the world, as a man among men. Yes, it does all that, and more, it confers privileges and responsibilities, the acceptance an exercise of which bring real happiness and contentment of mind.

What a wonderful nation is ours! Today, the little boy that runs the streets knows more of the history of his country than the man in the pages of his country's history through the brilliancy of his achievements.

You are young men possessed of energy and enthusiasm for the things of life. You are ready to engage in problems for material advancement. To accept and enjoy the opportunities that our nation offers you as you progress along the pathway of life. Let me suggest that occasionally you pause and ask yourselves if you are giving full measure to the state in return for all the blessings of free citizenship conferred upon you. If you take time to think you are responsible citizens, you will, I am sure, make good citizens. It is the unthinking man who fails to appreciate the glorious nationality that is his, that becomes lax in citizenship.

Remember that flag you salute on the streets, that was borne by aged and faltering veterans in parade yesterday, is the flag of a free and glorious country. It is the flag that has brought warmth and sunshine to the hearts of oppressed humanity in the days that are past, and it is the flag that in the days soon to come will offer solace and peace to hearts deeply afflicted by a warfare more hellish in its fury and its horrors, than hell itself.

James Shugrue then sang "Can You Say for a Broken Heart?" and he was loudly applauded. Babe Rogers, Lowell's premier cabaret entertainer was next called and he made the hit of his long and successful career. He gave "Revival Day," and during its rendition interpolated gestures that would make Billy Sunday look like an amateur.

William H. Sullivan then responded for the press. He congratulated the club members for their past successes and wished them all possible happiness and prosperity in the years to come.

Rep. Murphy was the concluding speaker and he thanked all for their attention during the evening and invited the guests to come at any time and enjoy the hospitality of the members. He also told of the interna-

touching tribute to the veterans, who on Memorial day paraded our streets and marched to the cemeteries to honor their departed brothers. The speaker also urged upon all the necessity of loyalty to President Wilson in these troublesome days. During the course of Mr. Casey's address he said:

A man's citizenship in this republic is a priceless inheritance. It stamps him with the dignity of manhood. It clothes him in the garb of civic purity and proclaims him to the world, as a man among men. Yes, it does all that, and more, it confers privileges and responsibilities, the acceptance an exercise of which bring real happiness and contentment of mind.

What a wonderful nation is ours! Today, the little boy that runs the streets knows more of the history of his country than the man in the pages of his country's history through the brilliancy of his achievements.

You are young men possessed of energy and enthusiasm for the things of life. You are ready to engage in problems for material advancement. To accept and enjoy the opportunities that our nation offers you as you progress along the pathway of life. Let me suggest that occasionally you pause and ask yourselves if you are giving full measure to the state in return for all the blessings of free citizenship conferred upon you. If you take time to think you are responsible citizens, you will, I am sure, make good citizens. It is the unthinking man who fails to appreciate the glorious nationality that is his, that becomes lax in citizenship.

Remember that flag you salute on the streets, that was borne by aged and faltering veterans in parade yesterday, is the flag of a free and glorious country. It is the flag that has brought warmth and sunshine to the hearts of oppressed humanity in the days that are past, and it is the flag that in the days soon to come will offer solace and peace to hearts deeply afflicted by a warfare more hellish in its fury and its horrors, than hell itself.

James Shugrue then sang "Can You Say for a Broken Heart?" and he was loudly applauded. Babe Rogers, Lowell's premier cabaret entertainer was next called and he made the hit of his long and successful career. He gave "Revival Day," and during its rendition interpolated gestures that would make Billy Sunday look like an amateur.

William H. Sullivan then responded for the press. He congratulated the club members for their past successes and wished them all possible happiness and prosperity in the years to come.

Rep. Murphy was the concluding speaker and he thanked all for their attention during the evening and invited the guests to come at any time and enjoy the hospitality of the members. He also told of the interna-

touching tribute to the veterans, who on Memorial day paraded our streets and marched to the cemeteries to honor their departed brothers. The speaker also urged upon all the necessity of loyalty to President Wilson in these troublesome days. During the course of Mr. Casey's address he said:

It is well said that "despair of humanity would be to despair of humanity," and the full force of that statement was never more apparent than in these troublesome days. Yes, indeed, the hopes of humanity are centered in America, and under the wise guidance of our noble president, America is prepared to keep alive the principles of humanity as the guiding forces of civilization.

The preservation of our American heritage is our present day obligation. Indifference, and weakness in ourselves toward our duties and responsibilities may bring ruin to our national life. Nations proud and grand in the past have succumbed when their people lost all sense of national honor, and failed to maintain the dignity of the state. We are weak and in grave danger, when we proclaim ourselves too powerful and great to listen to the common dictates of humanity, and the commandments of God.

It is well said that American citizenship means equality, but there is not an equality on the part of many citizens in the discharge of their obligations to the state. Some citizens give far more than others. Some men there are, in every community who enjoy the freedom of our institutions and yet live on year after year and fail to swear allegiance to the nation that has offered them opportunity for advancement in life. Some men there are, who are too lazy and indifferent to affairs of state, to take even a passing interest in problems of civic life.

Real citizenship may be displayed only by a real Christian man. The privilege of depositing a ballot at the polling precinct, election day, does not make a man a real citizen. It is the motives and reasons that cause him to vote as he does that counts. And how far these motives and reasons are based upon the purest and best ideals of citizenship. The real test is how well a man can conduct himself in his relations with his fellow man in every day affairs of life.

Our weakness as a nation may only result, when our citizens become indifferent and careless in the exercise of citizenship. When citizens become arrayed against one another on matters that have no place in our national life. The most despicable character in American life is the man who is unable, narrow minded bigot, who under the guise of patriotic inspiration, develops issues and disseminates untruths that tend to arouse enmity towards loyal citizens, yet how futile and unavailing are such efforts, when we consider the broad and liberal principles of our institutions.

A man's citizenship in this republic is a priceless inheritance. It stamps him with the dignity of manhood. It clothes him in the garb of civic purity and proclaims him to the world, as a man among men. Yes, it does all that, and more, it confers privileges and responsibilities, the acceptance an exercise of which bring real happiness and contentment of mind.
